Treat At Versailles

Windsors 'Out' As King George Visits In Paris

British United Press

CANNES, France, April 29.—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor have decided to divide their time between Paris and the Riviera for a long time to come.

They arrived here recently to sign a three year lease on the Chateau La Croye, at Cap d'Antibes, owned by Sir Pomeroy Burton, retired London journalist who, born in the United States, was naturalized in Great Britain in 1916 and knighted in 1923.

It was understood that the Duke and Duchess intended to spend most of their time on the Riviera, and the rest at their leased villa in Versailles, outside Paris.

They intend to occupy the chateau during the visit of the Duke's brother, King George VI, to Paris in June.

Their plan was to return to Paris and remain there until the beginning of June and then to return here.

It was not known whether they would be in Paris for the first anniversary of their marriage on June 3, but it seemed definite that they had decided to absent themselves during the King's visit to Paris.

The chateau at Cap d'Antibes is a two-storey mansion of white stone with a lawn leading to the seashore. It has three reception rooms and eight bedrooms, with eight baths. One feature is an attractive white-columned circular pergola in the garden.

Third Party Move Awaits Revealing

MADISON, Wis., April 28.—Governor Philip F. La Follette's program for a political realignment of Liberals awaited revelation tonight at an outdoor mass meeting which may be the precursor of a national third party.

Diplomats Two Nations Agree On All Points

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN

British United Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, April 28.—Full agreement on all points designed to formulate a virtual alliance for peace and war between Great Britain and France have been reached at the conference just concluded between Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of France, and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, Foreign Minister of Great Britain.

Demands of Sudeten Germans in regard to Czechoslovakia undoubtedly hastened the accord. These demands, made in the last few days and in no uncertain terms, were interpreted by the British and French statesmen as an ultimatum.

So important is the situation in Czechoslovakia insofar as a continuance of peace in Europe is concerned that the British government felt that the fullest accord with France was necessary if such peace is to be maintained.

IS DUTY BOUND

France is duty bound by treaty to go to Czechoslovakia's aid if that country is attacked, and the Anglo-French accord, just completed, will undoubtedly stiffen Czechoslovakia's attitude toward the German demands.

Adolf Hitler is generally credited in foreign office circles in the various European capitals as being the force behind the move to dominate Middle Europe, economically and politically, through Naziism. The Czech crisis was a carefully-planned move on the European checkerboard, and in the Hitler manner, it was quicker and more dramatic than expected. It is now hoped that the strong stand taken by France and Great Britain may offset the Hitler move, but it is conceded that should the attempts of the Sudeten Germans to coerce

FRANCE TREATY CALLS FOR AID OF CZECH FOLK

New Problem Opens Up For London-Paris Parley Of Premiers

By HERBERT BAILEY

British United Press

Special Cable to Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, April 28.—The sudden and serious turn in the demand of Czechoslovakia's German minority for sweeping concessions presented a new problem today for Great Britain and France, whose prime ministers and foreign ministers are to hold a two-day conference here today.

Informed opinion was that the situation has become grave in Czechoslovakia, as the demands of the Sudeten Germans are interpreted as an ultimatum.

So important was the situation, in the British view, that it was forecast the Czechoslovak government would take no stand before Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, hold the first of a two-day series of conferences at the foreign office Thursday with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of France.

France is bound by treaty to go to Czechoslovakia's aid if she is attacked. Great Britain declines to undertake specific commitments in Central Europe but it seemed to be increasingly apparent to Britons that they would be dragged into war on France's side if she were attacked on whatever ground.

Because of the new situation, it was predicted with increasing confidence that the possibility of technical co-operation of the British and French air forces would be a major item for discussion at this week's conversations here.

NO SCHOOLS AS BARROW WHALE DIES

BARROW, Alaska, April 28.—The cry "fresh whale" emptied this farthest north Eskimo village when the first of the huge sea mammals to be killed this season was beached 15 miles to the south. Workmen dropped their tools and pupils deserted the school. It's an old Eskimo custom for everyone to assist in cutting up a whale.

Pilot Bails Out As Plane Crashes

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 28—Student pilot J. L. J. Bemoip of the Royal Canadian air force base at nearby Trenton bailed out of his falling airplane at 3,000 feet today and landed safely in a field. The machine crashed in a spin and was destroyed.

STEVE OLANDER COMING TO CITY WITH BOB FRITZ

WINNIPEG, April 28. — When Bob Fritz left Winnipeg today for Edmonton, where he will coach and play for Alberta's capital football team in the interprovincial rugby-football conference next fall, he took Winnipeg Blue Bombers' star kicker, Steve Olander.

Olander, long-hoofing star of the Bombers last fall when they captured the Western Canada championship for the second time in three years, has been guaranteed an attractive full-time position in Edmonton.

The Winnipeg-born companion of Fritz had offers from Ottawa to play with the capital city team in the Big Four, but preferred to remain in the west.

Red Deer-Calgary Intervening Towns Seeking Highway

OLDS, Alta., April 28.—A delegation representing all towns between Red Deer and Calgary will present a brief to Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta minister of public works, urging that the proposed new Calgary-Edmonton highway pass through each of the towns.

Decision to send a delegation to Edmonton was made at a meeting here last night. Members of the delegation will be named later. The brief may be presented during the coming week-end.

Under present government plans, it was stated the new route for the highway, three miles southeast of Olds, would not touch any of the towns south of Innisfail.

Big Development Program Planned For Turner Vale

By GEORGE FINLAY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY, April 28.—In Alberta's Turner Valley, a valley of contrasts where spring flowers bloom in early April, many days ahead of rangeland growth, and strawberry plants bear fruit in February, millions of dollars are being poured this year in the search for oil.

A $14,000,000 oil development program is underwaytoday. Forty-one new wells, in the centre crude field of south Turner Valley, are being drilled; another 14 are preparing to drill and 25 more will have started their great rotary drills by June 1.

Today 45 wells are producing yield, flowing at full capacity, of 40,000 barrels a day—a daily revenue of $50,000 and a yearly value of $17,600,000. Crude oil from the valley, marketed as far east as

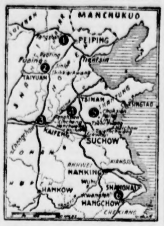
Red Raids



Chinese Communist troops are putting up a stiff resistance against the invading Japanese forces. Chinese Communist raiders were reported near Peiping at Fangshan (1). Many recent raids were directed from Fuping (2), the capital of a new Communist State east of the Peiping-Hankow railway. While the Japanese prepared to attack north of Kaifeng (3) the Chinese were pushing the invaders back north of Suchow (4). The Japanese are attempting to halt a northward drive in Eastern Shantung (5). They said they had retaken Kwangteh (6).

CHINA CLAIMS BATTLE LINES STILL HOLDING

Japanese Report Of Blasting Hole Through Is Discounted

SHANGHAI, April 28 — Although their losses were reported to be running into many thousands, Chinese spokesmen said their lines were still holding today on the 30-mile front between Yihsien and Tancheng in South Shantung province.

This claim countered Japanese reports of a "wide hole" blasted in the Chinese line enabling them to move up their artillery within range of the Lunghai railway.

This railway has been the objective of Japanese strategy for the last four months as they sought to join their North China conquests with their coastal positions about Shanghai and Nanking.

In a battle that already was testing the full Japanese strength in fighting the most severe since Chinese evacuated Shanghai and Nanking, Japanese sought to prevent fresh Chinese reinforcements reaching the area.

MAN REACHING FINISH LINE IN 40-DAY FASTING

DETROIT, April 28.—Weak and thin, but resolute, George McKenna entered upon the last stages today of a 40-day fast which he confidently expects to cure him of hay fever. The 44-year-old Syrian garage-man reached Wednesday the 39th day of his period of abstinence from food. He said he hoped to prove the "self-curative powers" of the human body.

Nation League Facing Test Of Ultimate Fate

Expectation Of Lackadaisical Session At Geneva Lost In Maelstrom of Conflicting European Affairs

By WALLACE CARROLL

British United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, April 28.—What had promised to be a lackadaisical session of the League of Nations council May 9 is assuming great potential importance today.

The sudden and serious turn in the demand of Czechoslovakia's German minority for sweeping concessions presented a new problem today for Great Britain and France.

Joseph A. Avenol, league secretary-general, decided to go to London to consult with Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and then continue on to Paris for conferences with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet.

Informed opinion was that the situation was becoming grave in Czechslovakia, as the demands of the Sudeten Germens are interpreted as an ultimatum.

RUSHES TO LONDON

First the Spanish Loyalist government demanded that the council examine evidence of increased Italian and German intervention in the Spanish civil war.

Then Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia demanded a hearing when the council considers releasing the League members from their obligation not to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

In addition, the council is to consider the plight of refugees from Nazified Austria, a matter calcu-

SOCRED PARLEY PROBES UNION WESTERN BODY

Preliminary Organization Discussed At Four-Provihce Meet

Preliminary organization of a Western Social Credit Association was discussed at the opening sitting of the four-province parley on the subject convened by Premier William Aberhart, at the legislative bupildings on Thursday.

Interviewed at the noon adjournment, the Premier stated that the morning had been spent largely in general discussion of a preliminary nature.

He said that three accredited delegates were in attendance from each province and that there were others sitting in on the parley but without voting power.

THOSE ATTENDING

Among those attending from other points are, Major A. J. Jukes, Victoria; T. A. McInnis, J. B. McLeod, E. R. Robertson, Lt. Col. S. W. Arnold and M. J. Hever from Saskatchewan; Salome Haldorsen, M.L.A., A. C. Benjamin, N. Cooper and W. Sanders from Manitoba.

A. E. Goodwin, president of the Alberta Social Credit League, and J. A. Maurice, secretary, attended.

Among the Dominion Social Credit members present were Capt. Victor Quelch, M.C., Acadia; O. B. Elliott, Kindersley, Sask.; Rev. E. G. Hansell, Macleod.

Several members of the cabinet, including Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer; Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, and Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture were present, as were Glen L. MacLachlan,

Government May Slash Production Tax At Half Way

MEDICINE HAT, April 28. — A production tax of 3½ or 4 per cent would be sufficient to replace the present agricultural land taxes, Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, told a Social Credit meeting at Redcliffe last night.

"If the people wish," he said, "it is possible that only 3½ or 4 per cent will be charged."

He said the seven per cent levy was proposed in order to eliminate the land tax and to build up a crop insurance scheme to protect the farmers.

"Under the production tax there will no longer be arrears," said the minister. "The man who has a crop is the one who will pay."

Burns Reports $222,000 In Loss

CALGARY, April 28—John Burns was re-elected president and chairman of the board of directors at the tenth annual meeting of Burns and company, packers, here today.

Mr. Burns, in reporting a loss of $222,000 on operations during 1937, said the past year was one of the most difficult years in the history of the packing industry in both the United States and Canada.

HITLER TO GET ROME ACCLAIM LIKE CAESAR'S

The Most Spectacular Ever Given Foreigner Visiting Italy

By G. C. JORDAN

Associated Press Foreign Staff

ROME April 28.—Adolf Hitler's reception here May 3 will be the most spectacular ever given a foreign visitor to the Italian peninsula.

The array of massed manpower, demonstrations of military might and decorative splendors planned in Hitler's honor will overshadow anything ever seen in modern Rome or the ancient city of the Caesars.

For the week's visit Fascist Italy intends to outdo itself in impressing the world with solidarity of the new Italo-German friendship arisen from centuries of antagonism.

Few Benefit by Canada's Tariff Probe Informed

TORONTO, April 28.—Tariffs directly benefit a minority of Canadian production and less than a quarter of those employed in manufacturing and agriculture, the Rowell commission was told Wednesday by the Canadian Importers and Traders Association.

The association claimed the national tariff policy benefited chiefly the two central provinces, at the expense of the rest of the country. It said 505,000 workers were engaged in manufacturing in Canada in 1936 while 523,000 were in industries not directly benefitted by tariffs and 1,128,000 were in agriculture.

GLARING INEQUITIES

Similarly, manufacturing production was $1,016,623,000 while industries not directly benefitted by the tariff produced goods worth $1,378,097,000. The association urged sufficient lowering of the tariff to "eliminate some glaring inequities."

The British-Israel world federation merely filed a submission urging adoption of the divine system of government and economics outlined in the Bible. Its suggestions included abolition of provincial legislatures, election of a central gov-

HALDANE SEES END OF BRITISH EMPIRE SOON

LONDON, April 28.—Professor J. B. S. haldane thinks there may not be any British empire in another 10 or 15 years. Addressing Indian students here, he said they should "consider it a possibility that the empire, as we know it now, may collapse in a rather dramatic manner in the next 10 years."

The distinguished physiologist said: "At the present moment the British empire seems to be committing suicide. Owing to the present foreign policy, communications between Britain and India will become difficult or even impossible in the event of an international war."

Plan Is Revealed for Germany to Take Over All Jewish Property

REGISTRATION OF FORTUNES IS DEMANDED

After Money is Exhausted Jews Are To Be Urged To Emigrate

BERLIN, April 28—A high authority last night disclosed the German government plans to take over all Jewish property "in due course of time" and to encourage Jews to emigrate from Germany.

This disclosure was made in explanation of a new decree requiring the approximately 750,000 Jews in greater Germany to register their fortunes and properties both at home and abroad. The decree was issued Wednesday by Field Marshal Hermann Goering, No. 2 Nazi.

LEGAL FOOTING

"The decree is intended to place on a legal footing the gradual elimination of the Jew from German business life, in that he is to be assured that the properties declared are actually his and will not simply be taken away from him by unauthorized action," the authority said.

Once the exact figures are known, he continued, the government can proceed with its plan.

Being able at any moment to place a finger on any spot where Jewish fortunes or properties are located, significant enough in itself, acquires additional meaning in the light of an editorial published in Das Schwarze Korps, organ of Nazi S.S. troops.

WORST NOT OVER

Written before the decree was in print, the editorial said numerous Vienna Jews were trying to get to Berlin on the assumption the worst there was over and life would be easier for them.

"On the contrary," said the newspaper, "we must force Jews to remain at their parasitical posts until their money is gone.

"We must persuade them by all means that they cannot remain in the Reich and that it is better for them to pay the flight of capital tax today than to be shipped off tomorrow or the day after to Palestine or Madagascar—a solution which will come about sooner or later as soon as some other nations wake up to common sense."

TORONTO ADDS VOICE TO CRY FOR NEW DEAL

TORONTO, Ont., April 28 — The city of Toronto, with the endorsation of the Ontario Mayors' Association, added its voice today to the growing cry of municipalities for a new deal so far as municipal responsibilities are concerned.

The load of services devolving upon the municipalities had been steadily increased, straining the municipal financial structure to the point where taxation had been pushed to its limit, Mayor Ralph C. Day declared before the Rowell commission.

The answer was assumption by the senior governments, the province particularly, of a larger share of many duties now resting heavily on the municipalities, he suggested.

"In all municipalities were now seen vacant lots where the owner had deliberately torn down a building to avoid taxation," the mayor said.

Receives Call

REV. H. A. McLEOD

VICTORIA, April 28.—A large congregation of members of First United Church last night unanimously resolved that a call should be given to Rev. Hugh A. McLeod, M.A., B.D., pastor of Robertson United Church, Edmonton, to accept the pastorate here, from which Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson is resigning.

Accepting a call to First United Church, Victoria, Rev. H. A. McLeod, for the past seven years minister of Robertson United Church in the city, will leave for his new post sometime in July, it was announced Thursday.

Rev. Mr. McLeod has accepted the call, subject to approval by the presbytery of his church.

Inducted in 1931, Rev. Mr. McLeod, who has built up a big congregation here, succeeded Rev. Dr. T. H. Mitchell in the pulpit of Robertson United Church.

Graduating with honors in the study of political economy and English literature from Knox and Queen's universities, the brilliant young preacher climaxed a colorful college career by winning distinction by his ministry at Medicine Hat, Saskatoon and Edmonton.

MUST BE WITHDRAWN

The Spanish and Ethiopian questions are intimately connected with the new Italian-British friendship treaty for it is a pre-requisite to the treaty's effectiveness that Italian "volunteers" shall be withdrawn from Spain and that Great Britain shall recognize Italy's conquest.

It was believed certain here that Ethiopia, China or Russia, or all three would prevent a unanimous vote—and unanimity is required for council decisions—to release league members from their non-recognition obligations.

For that reason it was suggested that Britain might avoid a direct vote and after discussion, might report that a majority of council members favored recognition aiming to offset any home criticism when the government formally recognized King Victor Emmanuel as "Emperor of Ethiopia."

Intensified Anglo-French Military Aid Is Sought

LONDON, April 28—Intensified Anglo-French military co-operation is likely to be the major development from the talks begun here today by the premiers and foreign ministers of the two countries.

With Nazi steps to join Germans of Czechoslovakia with greater Germany becoming an increasing possibility, agreement seemed assured on the question of Anglo-French military co-operation.

The British and French air, army and navy staffs already are working together on technical matters, and Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Edouard Daladier were in position today to add finishing touches to a plan of closely co-ordinated military activity.

With their foreign ministers, Georges Bonnet of France and Viscount Halifax of Great Britain, the two met at 10 Downing Street to talk all day. They will meet also tomorrow.

Anglo-French Entente Down To Brass Tacks

LONDON, April 28—The Anglo-French entente got down to brass tacks today. In the cabinet room at No. 10 Downing Street, Premier Edouard Daladier and Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, on the one hand, and Prime Minister Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, on the other—each with their respective advisers—began two days of discussion ranging over the whole tortuous European field.

It is unlikely before tomorrow afternoon any official indication of their decisions will be available, but it may be taken for granted the entente will be re-affirmed and strengthened. Already it amounts to a virtual alliance.

ALBERTA OIL DEVELOPMENT IS UNDERWAY

Winnipeg, has a price of $1.25 a barrel.

Last year $10,000,000 was spent in the valley on new wells in the picturesque foothills country 45 miles southwest of Calgary where but a few years ago ranchers and their range riders held sway. A year ago at this time 23 wells were drilling and seven preparing to start operations.

AVERAGE DEPTH

Average depth of the valley wells is 7,000 feet and the average cost of drilling is $175,000 a well. Some, however, range as high as $212,000, depending on depth and structure encountered.

At present the field is on a proration schedule. Production is at 42 per cent of capacity, about 15,800 barrels daily, valued at $18,850.

With the potential capacity rated at 40,000 barrels daily in a government report issued Wednesday, it is expected a new pro-ration order will be promulgated to permit boosting the flow at all wells in the crude field.

In the valley of contrasts, some of the new crude wells have a potential of more than 4,000 barrels of oil daily. In the older section of the field, some wells—all naphtha producers—have a yield of as little as five barrels a day.

OLDTIMERS DOOMED

Along the 15-mile valley range there are 121 wells in operation—76 oldtimers. Many of the "oldtimers" are doomed to be closed soon under the gas conservation program of the Alberta government. It is estimated that 50 of the naphtha producers will be closed.

With them will close the giant flares—burning 200,000,000 cubic feet of waste gas daily. The ever-burning flares produce an artificial warmth in the valley, melting snow from the steel-masted derricks and forcing growth of flowers and grasses. One oil worker has a strawberry bed near one of the flares where he picked fresh berries in February this year.

BIG MONEY TALK

It's "big money" talk in the valley boom towns of Little Chicago and Little New York. Scores of new homes are in the making for the field workers and tradesmen are rushing into Alberta's new frontier towns. In the townsite of Little New York $50,000 has been spent in new business buildings in the past six weeks. Many more thousands have been spent in Little Chicago.

PRESS COMMITTEE

It was announced that Premier Aberhart and Mr. Maynard were named as a press committee.

The advance delegation of visitors arrived on Wednesday and others on Thursday.

Three accredited delegates were allotted to each of the four provinces, while other Social Credit supporters have come in from other ponits.

Formation of the association is to further the interests of Social Credit in general.

Miss Salome Haldorsen, M.L.A., from Manitoba and M. J. Haver, leading Social Credit official from Saskatoon were among the early arrivals.

Major A. J. Jukes of Victoria was an early arrival at the buildings, as a British Columbia delegate.

The conference will sit both morning and afternoon with the possibility of an evening sitting.

KING ZOG, NEW QUEEN HOLDING HONEYMOON COURT

TIRANA, Albania, April 28—King Ahmed Zog and the youthful Hungarian Countess who became Queen Geraldine today have established their court at a honeymoon palace on Durazzo Bay.

The 42-year-old sovereign and his 22-year-old bride were acclaimed as they left Tirana to drive the 25 miles to Durazzo after the short, civil ceremony.

As a wedding gift, Mohammedan King Zog promised to build his Catholic bride a Catholic chapel in the palace. He also granted her request that she be permitted to choose her ladies in waiting from among Hungarian friends.

Alberta Nurses Given Diplomas

VANCOUVER, April 28—A class of 40 St. Paul's hospital nurses were given their diplomas at graduating exercises last night.

Still Hope

W. R. WILSON

Toronto radio operator who accompanied Sir Hubert Wilkins on his Arctic search for Sigismund Levaneffsky and his companions, says he is "not absolutely sure" that the Russian airmen are dead. There is still a chance of them being found, he feels.

WILSON FEELS AIRMEN STILL MAY BE ALIVE

Radio Operator Of Search Says Possible Story Garbled

TORONTO, April 28.—W. R. (Billy) Wilson is not "absolutely sure" Sigmund Leffanevcky, Russian aviator, and his five companions, forced down on a flight from Moscow to San Francisco, are dead.

Wilson, Toronto radio operator, spent last winter with Herbert Hollick-Kenyon and Sir Hubert Wilkins searching the Arctic for some trace of the lost Russians.

Tuesday night the state department at Washington received word from Sergeant Stanley Morgan, in charge of the army wireless station at Point Barrow, Alaska, that Eskimos had told him that last August they saw an air-plane crash into ice-filled waters.

But it's possible the story was garbled as it travelled among the Eskimos, Wilson said Wednesday. Had the Russians landed there was every reason to believe they were still alive and drifting toward the northern coast of Russia or Siberia, he said.

"The spot Morgan mentions is on the course the Russians flew and the time are correct," Wilson commented. "Our party searched about that spot near Barter Island—an Eskimo there told us he had seen an airplane."

Physical Culture Club Formed At Fort Smith, N.W.T.

FORT SMITH, N.W.T., April 28—A unique mark in northern welfare was passed here Wednesday evening when ladies of Fort Smith formed a physical culture club and held their initial meeting at the home of Mrs. Bruce Clark, wife of the manager of the Hudson's Bay company post.

Mac Watson, local airways agent, was elected to supervise the courses. Keen interest was shown by all interested.

Among those present were: Mrs. B. Clark, Mrs. H. Ewing, Mrs. K. Conibear, Mrs. P. Kaeser, Miss G. Ling, Miss V. Sandaluk and Miss H. Sandaluk.

U. S. NAVY IS READY FOR BIDS OF $546,866,494

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The United States navy, armed with a record peacetime $546,866,494 appropriation, prepared today to ask bids with a minimum of delay on two more battleships and a score of other craft.

President Roosevelt yesterday signed the regular appropriation bill for the next fiscal year, providing $140,000,000 to start work on the 22 new craft and continue construction of some 60 others.

Detailed designs of the battleships are complete, officials said. They will be 1,000 tons or more larger, but otherwise similar to the 35,000-ton U.S.S. Washington and U.S.S. North Carolina, which were started late last year.

Construction of projected "super-battleships" of about 45,000 tons depended on congressional approval of the separate $1,156,000,000 fleet expansion bill which the senate is debating.

Engineer Feeds Corn To Tractor

OMAHA, Neb., April 28—Fred Hawthorn of Monona County, Iowa, an agricultural engineer, told the fourth annual National Farm Chemurgic Council conference Tuesday he had been "feeding my tractor about a bushel of corn a day and it liked it." Power alcohol, made from corn and other farm products at Atchison, Kas., and blended with gasoline, Hawthorn said, provides an excellent tractor fuel.

ANGLO-FRENCH DIPLOMATS IN FULL ACCORD

CLARIFY POSITION

In the conferences just closed with the French statesmen Prime Minister Chamberlain outlined what he hopes will be another step in clarifying Britain's position throughout Europe, consolidating what he believes are substantial gains toward European tranquility obtained by his provisional agreement with Mussolini.

It is hoped the Anglo-French policy will gradually take definite shape as result of these London conversations and that a basis will be created for extending a policy of conciliation which will embrace all Europe—including Germany.

Chamberlain forosees that if he can bring Europe to seek general appeasement through negotiations, he will have accomplished not only an outstanding vital service for Britain, but also for Europe as a whole.

SEVEN MAJOR POINTS

Daladier and Bonnet brought up for discussion seven major points.

1—France's desire for closest coordination between the two countries in their rearmament programs so as to form a tantamount military alliance. (This also includes coordination in purchasing from the United States aircraft and aircraft equipment.)

2—A British loan to stabilize the French monetary system, should the discussions favor bringing up of the subject.

3—Preparation for a common policy at the League Council in Geneva dealing with recognition of the Italian conquest of Abyssinia.

4—The entire future of the Anglo-Italian and Franco-Italian relations to be threshed out.

5—Clarification of Britain's future attitude regarding the problems of Central Europe; such as integrity of Czechoslovakia.

6—Formation of a common Anglo-French attitude toward Spain in event of a Franco victory. This was linked with a program of getting the Italians and Germans out of Spain.

7—Conversations dealing with Germany's colonial demands. France was anxious to get a common Anglo-French attitude on this matter because Germany was expected to resume her colonial demands shortly.

Many final details of the discussions are expected to be conversed in closer detail after Daladier and Bonnet return to Paris. Britain will likely stress, more particularly than France, the need for defining a future policy towards Germany and also what part Russia may play in European reconstruction.

Downing Street Debates Relations With Italy

LONDON, April 28—Relations with Italy were the first subject dealt with at 10 Downing street today by Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, for France, and Prime Minister Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, for Great Britain.

Technical questions on the cooperation of the two countries in national defence also were discussed.

The British ministers gave a detailed account of the negotiations and concluding of the Anglo-Italian accord and outlined the results which they expect it to lead to. M. Daladier warmly felicitated Mr. Chamberlain upon the accord.

In British opinion the Anglo-Italian agreement is considered to be a step toward the general appeasement of Europe, which remains the essential objective of British policy.

Improvement in relations with Italy is expected to be marked soon by recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia. At the May 9 session of the council of the League of Nations, Lord Halifax, with the support of the French delegation, will propose each member nation be accorded freedom of judgment on this subject.

Farmers Killed Striking Train On Fishing Trip

SUNDRIDGE, Ont., April 28. — Five or six Sundridge farmers leaving here on a fishing trip were killed Wednesday when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a freight train at a level crossing. The sixth man is in hospital with a fractured hip and internal injuries.

The dead: Ray Morrington, 24; James Jones, 42; Gordon Hornibrook, 24; Ernest Hornibrook, 50, and Edward Wilton, 23. Clifford Morrington, 23, was injured.

HOWE URGES REJUVENATION OF ALL TRANSPORT

OTTAWA, April 28.—Canada is practically the only country which has not yet extended government regulation of transport to other forms of transport than railways, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, told the House of Commons committee on railways, canal and telegraphs, today.

The committee began a study of Mr. Howe's transport bill which would change the name of the Board of Railway Commissioners to the Board of Transport Commissioners and extend regulation to air transport and certain water transport.

All air transport will be regulated if the bill becomes law. Water transport of package freight on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River will be regulated. Bulk cargoes such as grain, coal, ore, pulp and logs will be exempt.

Shipping on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and on Hudson Bay will be exempt but the bill will apply to shipping between eastern ports and western ports by way of the Panama canal.

The minister said members of parliament were being flooded with chain letters opposing various features of the bill. He himself had 50 or 60 letters couched in the same language.

Western Canada Club Is Formed

TORONTO, April 28 — Next meeting of the newly-formed Western Canada Club, with a membership of nearly 100 former westerners now living in Toronto, will be held May 4, club officials announced Tuesday.

Provisional officers are: Chairman, G. B. Hollett, Saskatoon; treasurer, Mel Pierce, Winnipeg, secretary, Miss Ann McLean, Calgary; executive committee, Gordon Pollon, Winnipeg, Lloyd Jaeger, Saskatoon, Ernest Hall, Victoria.

French-British Air Forces To Co-Operate

LONDON, April 28.—Plans for co-operation between the French and British air forces and for maintaining raw material supplies in the event of war were approved by French and British statesmen at the opening session today of the Anglo-French talks, Havas learned in high quarters tonight.

Complete agreement was reached on all questions discussed at morning and ante-room sessions which came to a close at 5 p.m. when the French delegation left Downing street to prepare for a dinner which will be tendered in their honor by the King at Windsor tonight.

Relations with Italy were the first subject dealt with during the talks." Prime Minister Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, represented Great Britain, while Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet spoke for France.

A brief communique issued at the close of the afternoon session said, "Full accord was realized on all points of the discussions, and the meetings will be resumed tomorrow at 10:30 a.m."

REAL ESTATE TAX

The commission later heard the Ontario Municipal Association and the National Construction council present their views for reducing the municipal tax load, especially on real estate.

A shift of responsibilities from the municipalities to the senior governments sufficient to lighten the municipal tax burden by about one-third was suggested by the municipal association.

The association recommended the provinces contribute from one-third to one-half the cost of education, varying according to local need; bear hospital costs about $1 a day per patient borne by the municipality; and share with the Dominion the cost of direct unemployment relief.

HOME FINANCING

Easier home financing, along the lines of British building societies, and a substantial shift of the tax burden from real estate were held by the national construction council as urgent necessities for the home buyer and the stability of business generally in Canada.

Low interest, long-term mortgages and taxation of real estate instead of capital, were among proposals advanced. If real estate were relieved of its "excessive" tax load and construction were stimulated by "a better type of financing," building and employment would increase, home owning would be encouraged, rents improved and living standards raised, the council submitted.

Intervals between these gala events will be crammed with organized demonstrations of Anglo-Italian friendship. The glories of ancient Rome and up-to-the-minute organization of present day Fascism will be splashed on Premier Mussolini's stage.

In Rome there will be a German opera produced in an open-air theatre constructed from ruins of the baths of Caracalla.

There Hitler also will see an opera in conjunction with the Florentine festival, "Musical May."

At Naples, the visitor will watch a naval demonstration including mock attacks on his battleship by submarines and warplanes.

But Rome will be where Mussolini will treat his German guest to the most elaborate exhibition of Fascist discipline on parade. From the moment he enters the eternal city through a new station erected in his honor, and passes over an avenue named for him, Hitler will be the centre of a blaze of official enthusiasm.

Britain's Heavy Taxation Benefits Canada, Bennett Says

VAST EMPIRE OBLIGATIONS ARE STRESSED

Burden Of Rearmaments Borne By British For Canada, Speaker Says

OTTAWA, April 28 — Great Britain's heavy taxation program, outlined Tuesday to cover costs of rearmament, was imposed on the British not just to benefit them but the British also bore that burden for Canada, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, said in an address here last night.

"Weren't you moved as you read of that burden of taxation the British people imposed on themselves?" he asked an audience in Chalmers' United church that included Lord Tweedsmuir, the governor-general.

AN AWFUL TAX

"Five shilling and six pence out of 20 (the new British income tax) is an awful tax. It is not for England alone. It is for you. Their burden—think of it—the burden they are staggering under."

The former prime minister called for "frank recognition" of the obligations of empire. He asked what residents of Canada were doing "in this new land to recognize the debt we owe to these who fought and died and gave it to us.

"Where did we get our forests and lands? Whose blood won them for you? Who taxed themselves with a national debt? Where did the men come from that settled these shores and were given commissions to part with these lands to settlers?

GAVE IT TO US

"No part of the gold of Canada and South Africa goes back to Westminster. They gave it to us. What have we given them? Think it over."

Mr. Bennett declared he is convinced "the world we know is a world in which civilization without the British Empire perishes." The Empire is the one force which, in his judgment, could maintain world peace.

It had long been his desire to see something of the empire, Mr. Bennett explained before describing his trip to the Antipodes and South Africa. "A highly intelligent electorate gave me that leisure."

He travelled to New Zealand in a United States ship as he wanted to see what competition Canada faces. The magnificent, 20-knot ship indicated to Canadians they must be "up and doing" if they want to hold their trade position. Swifter Canadian transportation in the Pacific was necessary.

BLOWOUT PERIL NOW IS AT END

The average motorist who wonders what might happen if a tire fails at high speed, who has visions of crashing into a ditch or into oncoming traffic, need worry no longer.

"The answer to this question is simple," declared officials of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. "Nothing will happen, if the car is equipped with Goodyear LifeGuards.

"The Goodyear LifeGuard is simple in operation—and it always works. The LifeGuard consists of a conventional tube with a reserve tire built of two plies of fabric. The tube and the inner tire are joined together at the base. Air passes from the reserve tire to the outer tube through a simple tiny grommet vent. When a tire fails at high speed, air escapes instantly from the conventional tube but escapes from the fabric reserve tire slowly, like a slow leak. This allows the driver ample time to bring his car to a safe stop without a swerve, no matter at what speed he may have been travelling.

"With highway accidents apparently increasing in number each year, more and more motorists are turning to LifeGuards to give them that extra protection that can be had in no other way," officials concluded.

Brakeman Has Leg Amputated

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask., April 28.—Donald Dallas, 54, of Wilkie, Sask., Canadian Pacific Railway brakeman, was admitted to hospital here Wednesday suffering from severe injuries to both legs and the right leg was amputated last night.

North Battleford officials of the railway company said last night they had no statement to make in connection with the accident.

Attending physicians said Dallas' condition was "just fair."

Herring Catchers Seek Flat Price

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S., April 28.—Herring fishermen of this port Wednesday declared they would not carry on further fishing for the local market until they had reached a price agreement with buyers. The men asked a flat price of $1.50 a barrel for their catch during the spring, instead of $1.

TAX DODGERS ARE EXPOSED IN METHODS

Financial Editor Of London Daily Express Explains Schemes

LONDON, April 28.—Tax-dodging schemes of wealthy Britons, referred to in the budget speech Tuesday, and estimated to cost the British treasury £50,000,000 ($250,000,000) a year are the subject of an article by Stewart Gillies, financial editor of the London Daily Express.

The usual method adopted by these gentry, he said, is to form limited companies in Monte Carlo, Luxembourg, Leichtenstein, Palestine or some other little states which flourish on this business. They hand over their capital to these companies in exchange for shares or debentures. The companies invest these funds and collect the dividends.

But the companies are careful never to pay a dividend to their proprietor, the wealthy tax dodger, because if they did he would have to pay surtax on that dividend. They make him annual loans which he need not repay, or else, after a period, they wind up the company and return to him the original sum, plus all dividends received as a repayment of capital.

Another way wealthy Britons evade paying taxes is by residing abroad each year for six months and a few odd days so they can claim to be not legally domiciled in the British Isles.

Trans-Canada Free Passes Not Available

OTTAWA, April 28—Passes will not be issued for free rides on the Trans-Canada Air Lines, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, told the commons committee on railways Wednesday in reply to a question by Olaf Hanson (Lib., Skeena).

"I hope the minister will put his foot down very strongly on that," said W. A. Walsh (Con., Mount Royal).

"I wouldn't pay any attention to Mr. Walsh," said Mr. Hanson to the minister amid laughter from the house. "He said he wouldn't dare go up in a plane anyway."

Scottish Trades Congress Wants Government Out

GIRVAN, Scotland, April 28—Resignation of the government was demanded Wednesday at a meeting of the Scottish Trades Union congress by its chairman, Herbert Ellison. He attacked the government's foreign policy and declared if union labor was to help the government speed up its rearmament program, it had a right to know for what purpose those armaments will be used.

Redfern Search Admits Defeat

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, April 28.—An ill-fated search for Paul Redfern, long-missing United States flier, came to an end Wednesday when Theodore Waldeck and his wife came out of the British Guiana jungle, "very, very tired" after four months in the colony's scorching interior.

Death and other misfortune marred the expedition almost from the time it started last December on another hunt for the aviator who disappeared years ago on a flight over South America. Dr. Frederick Fox, a native of Lucan, Ont., died on Devil's Isle early in January.

To Build Ships

TOKYO, April 28—Nippon Yusen Kaisha (N.Y.K.), Japan's biggest shipping company, Wednesday announced plans to build 21 new vessels totalling 221,600 tons.

DE VALERA SEES SOLUTION SOON FOR PARTITION

DUBLIN, April 28.—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera, back from signing the new treaty between Eire and Great Britain at London, predicted Wednesday an early solution of the issue of Irish partition which Prime Minister Chamberlain compelled him to shelve in the London talks.

Speaking in the Dail on the treaty, Mr. De Valera said: "I believe it is only a matter of time—before somebody speaking from this bench will be able to announce that Ireland at last is a completely independent and sovereign state."

He said the new pact raised no obstacle to the ultimate union of Ireland.

Lynn Hulett Too Slick For Police Handcuffs

CHICAGO, April 27.—The police took no chances on Lynn Hulett escaping Wednesday.

But he took one and did.

Precautions were in order because Hulett earned some notice as a master of the "now you see me now you don't" art.

He was arrested Monday on charges of robbing his divorced wife. But, while awaiting questioning, he walked out of the state's attorney's office. He was seized later in an hotel.

So Wednesday morning he was handcuffed to a negro named Dewey Johnson and taken to the criminal court building with a group of prisoners. One officer led the file. Two others marched in the rear. The procession started through the dark basement.

And—presto—Hulett vanished.

The bewildered Johnson stared at the locked manacle. He said: "I felt him monkeying around with it and then he was gone."

CHILDREN ROMP WHILE PARENTS PROTEST RELIEF

TORONTO, April 28—Seventy-five children shunned school classes Wednesday at Lakeview, 14 miles west of Toronto, and romped in a field near where their parents were attending a meeting that grew from failure to obtain increased relief allwances.

The relief recipients said their children were being kept from school in protest against Toronto township council's refusal to grant them additional vouchers. At noon a shopkeeper sent food to the group and women collected money from onlookers to pay for milk.

Earlier police officers broke up a demonstration in which four women took possession of the automobile of a township relief administrator.

Relief Strikers In Court Today

CALGARY, April 28.—Held in custody for six hours, E. C. Hopper, leader of Calgary's relief strike, and 12 of his lieutenants were released from jail late Wednesday. They will be arraigned in court today on charges of unlawful assembly and vagrancy.

The strike leaders were arrested before noon Wednesday, taken from a line of pickets—250 men and women—who attempted a march through downtown Calgary against orders of the police.

"Hello daddy," shouted Hopper's 13-year-old daughter as he walked from the police headquarters cells followed by his 12 colleagues, members of the strike committee.

TRAVEL MADE HIM CONSTIPATED

Salesman Says Kruschen Keeps Him "On His Toes"

"I am a commercial traveller," writes a correspondent, "and due to endless travelling by train and automobile I find that I become constipated if I do not keep myself internally clean. Kruschen Salts is the only thing that will do this effectively and not interfere with my work. I take a large dose of Kruschen every Saturday night and on Sunday, when I have no work to do, the Salts act on me. On weekdays I take a small dose on rising. It is necessary that I be 'on my toes' all through the day, and this is the only way that it possibly can be done."—V.L.

Kruschen Salts is an excellent recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, when allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1938.

An Inducement To Pay

Alderman Ogilvie has filed notice of a motion to ask the city council to cancel penalties on arrears of taxes. The proposal is not to make a clean sweep of penalties. It would apply only to arrears accumulated before January 1st, 1936, and only on condition that all taxes due to the end of 1937 be paid by August 1st next.

Like proposals made in previous years were rejected. Time has shown that if cancelling penalties would not induce payment, there is little prospect of payment being made without the inducement. Whatever back taxes came in because of the concession would be that much to the good. If none came in, the city would be nothing out.

The plan is worth trying, since something may be gained and nothing can be lost. If it would likely stimulate payment, council would be justified in applying the arrangement on arrears up to January 1st, 1937. A dollar in hand is worth several in arrears.

The Grand Assault

The plans have been laid at Ottawa for the projected grand assault on the Canadian National Railways, and the drive for amalgamation is scheduled to take place next week, when the Senate is to put Mr. Hungerford and other C. N. R. officials on the carpet and demand to know what they think about the merger scheme.

Conservative Senators have been leading up to this climax for weeks, with speeches which dripped sympathy for the taxpayers because the National is not getting traffic enough to pay its way. None of them, of course, has gone into the circumstances—aside from the drought and the depression—which have destroyed the opportunity of the system to develop the traffic that could be drawn to it and reduced the public-owned railway to the position of a subsidiary transportation system.

That is a story the public ought to know, more generally and more clearly than they do. It is unlikely Mr. Hungerford and the other officials of the railways will feel free to recite the facts, covering several years, of the systematic sabotage to which the National system was subjected under the pretence of "cooperative" measures in the interests of economy; from the effects of which policy the Railways have not recovered. Should the officials do so, there would be a memorable explosion in the Senate chamber—coupled with instant and furious demands for their dismissal.

The public—particularly the western public—will be well advised to keep an eye on the manoeuvres at Ottawa during the next few weeks.

Buying Security

Of course he "grouses" about it—and who wouldn't—but the party known as John Bull is the record-holding voluntary taxpayer of all time. Sir John Simon has clinched his claim to the title by calling on him to hand over another $150,000,000 per year just to make sure his taxpaying in future will continue to be voluntary, and not done on demand of some continental conqueror.

Disregarding an item of $450,000,000 for rearmament, which is to be borrowed, and another item still in blank for supplementary estimates, also to be borrowed, the Chancellor figured that his finances would be $30,000,000 out of balance the wrong way by the end of this year. Not understanding Social Credit, or maybe because he did understand it, Sir John could see only one way to get the money.

So he proposes to raise the basic rate of income taxation from 25 to 27½ per cent, collect two pence per pound more on tea, and add a penny a gallon to the tax on fuel oils—following the recent precedent set by the legislature of Alberta. This, he calculates, will bring in the needed $30,000,000, with a ten per cent margin to the good.

The Chancellor proposes but parliament disposes. It is conceivable that parliament might reject the proposals, conceivable but not at all likely. And as usual the taxpayer will say it is an outrage. But he will pay, and that is what matters; and get some satisfaction in being able to pay the price of security in an insecure world.

Certain blighters on the continent having put their scheming heads together and decided to remake the map of Europe, Sir John the Chancellor and plain John the taxpayer are agreed that the British Isles are not to fall within the range of their reconstructive operations. Hence the preparedness budget.

$610,000 Gone

Edmonton's group of utilities are $610,000 poorer than they were before the city council met on Monday. But only on paper. The money didn't vanish suddenly. It vanished long ago. Council on Monday admitted its absence, and with no prospect of recovering it decided to write the item off the books and make a fresh start.

The utilities have been for many years setting aside out of their earnings money with which to renew their equipment as it wore out. But the officials did not keep the money. They turned it over to the custody of the city council. But council did not keep it either. Successive councils spent it, and balanced the accounts by marking up credits to the utilities. Against these credits were back taxes. When the taxes were paid the credits would be converted into cash and the position would be regularized, etc.

But the back taxes were not paid, and the present council doubts they ever will be, sharing a pretty general impression to that effect. Hence the decision to make an end of the pretence that the city has the $610,000 entrusted to it, by just writing off the amount and telling the utility officials it doesn't exist.

Hence also a decision that in future the annual instalment for renewals paid in by the utilities shall be kept on hand, in cash or saleable securities. A course which will have the advantage of being honest, and which will also be better for the utilities, since the credit of the city is no longer what it was fondly assumed it always would be.

What the record amounts to is that the utilities, in addition to making a heavy yearly contribution to the general funds of the city, have paid $610,000 back taxes on property whose owners could not or would not pay. In fairness a corresponding amount of confiscated property ought to be turned over to the utilities, if they can make any use of it.

The Japanese are complaining that Chinese soldiers do not all wear uniforms. The significant point is that they are complaining. A few months ago they were banzaing their intention to mop up the white race just as soon as they got through teaching the Chinese to love them.

Premier Daladier does not think much of Mr. Chamberlain's idea that Germany, Italy, France and Britain should form a four-power combination to rule Europe. Naturally he would like to know first which would lead the quartette and arrange the program.

Strength Needed

The only check to aggression short of taking the terrible hazards of general war is to make the aggressors so fear the potential striking force of the nations that stand for peace and the supremacy of law that they will not dare put through the more risky parts of their program. Weakness in tone, and still more in military, naval and air power, will only precipitate the sort of explosion which Washington, in co-operation with nations of good will the world over, is trying to prevent.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Non-Smoking Alliance

The Pipe of Peace, it appears, is shunned (in more senses than one) by the men who menace the peace of the world. The heads of the Berlin-Rome alliance are both, in fact, non-smokers. Hitler, indeed, detests tobacco so much that he cannot bear anybody near him smoking. In this, too, he follows the Napoleonic path. Although a snuff-taker, Napoleon loathed tobacco and was revolted by the tobacco smoke of his pipe-puffing marshals.

Ranged against the non-smoking dictators are the heavily smoking democratic statesmen. Mr. Chamberlain, like the rest of his cabinet, is fond of a smoke. M. Blum, the French premier, is the cigarette-smoking chief of a cabinet of cigarette-smokers. Far away in the White House Mr. Roosevelt puffs at his cigarette, and in the Kremlin Stalin smokes his curly pipe and hopes for peace. Pacific policies and tobacco apparently go together. In that happier, more hopeful age both M. Briand and Herr Stresemann were heavy smokers, as was Mr. Baldwin with his pipe and Mr. Eden with his cigarette.

But now that non-smoking dictators are in the saddle it seems the pipe of peace is shattered. Well might Robert Louis Stevenson confess he trusted no man who did not smoke.—Manchester Guardian.

Air Mission to Canada

There is nothing very surprising about the projected visit to Canada of a British aviation mission, which, incidentally, will first sound out the possibility of purchasing planes in the United States. The wonder is that in the face of the reported and pretty well substantiated failure of the British airplane industry to step production up to rearmament requirements, a mission was not dispatched to Canada long before this. It is no secret, for instance, that one Canadian factory is already turning out airplanes for the Turkish government.

Britain must long ago have realized that her chief vulnerability in time of war lies in the exposure of her great and vital industrial structure to the threat of demolition or at least disruption from aerial invasion. It is of course impossible to provide bombproof protection for heavy industry. You cannot just press a button in time of menace and move to subterranean safety armament factories which are now spread over thousands of acres of easily bombable territory. There are only two things that can effectively be done about this. First, build up a defensive organization capable of warding off attack from the air; and second, make provisions to secure the necessary production from areas not liable to attack.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Water Power Resources of Canada

The Dominion Water and Power Bureau of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, has completed its annual inventory of the developed water power resources of Canada. The basic information for the inventory is derived from the Bureau's Dominion Hydrometric Service which, conducted in the closest co-operation with the several provincial authorities, measures and records the stream flow of all important rivers in Canada.

All existing stream flow and power data available from federal, provincial and private sources have been systematically collated, analyzed and co-ordinated with a view to presenting a dependable estimate of available power based upon uniform methods of computation and arrangement as defined below. The results of these studies, as shown from the research, indicate available water power totalling 20,347,400 h.p. under conditions of ordinary minimum flow and 33,617,000 h.p. ordinarily available for six months of the year. The total turbine installation is 8,112,751 h.p.

The water powers of the Maritime Provinces while small in comparison with the sites in the other provinces constitute a valuable economic resource, the development of which is supplemented by power from abundant indigenous coal supplies. Quebec with large resources of water power has achieved a remarkable development, her present installation representing more than 49 per cent of the total for Canada. More than eighty per cent of her total installation is operated by seven large central station organizations. Ontario, like Quebec, without local coal supplies, also has abundant water power resources. The Hydro-Electric Power Commisson of Ontario, province-wide in its field, operates plants aggregating more than sixty-five per cent of the tootal hydraulic installation of the province and serving some 800 municipalities. Of the prairie provinces, Manitoba has the greatest power resources and the greatest development, seventy-five per cent of the total hydraulic development of the three provinces being installed on the Winnipeg river to serve the city of Winnipeg and adjacent municipalities and over the transmission network of the Manitoba Power Commission ninety-six cities, towns and villages in southern Manitoba. In the districts containing least water power, the southern portions of Alberta and Saskatchewan, there are large fuel resources. British Columbia, traversed by three distinct mountain ranges, ranks fourth in available power resources and her hydraulic development is exceeded in only Quebec and Ontario. The water powers of the Yukon and Northwest Territories, while considerable, are so remote from markets as to limit their present commercial development to local mining uses.

The significance of the distribution of Canadian water power resources is apparent when it is stated that approximately 60 per cent of the total available water resources and more than 81 per cent of the developed water power are located in the highly industrialized provinces of Ontario and Quebec in which there are no known natural coal deposits. The advantages of this favorable distribution of water power are being more widely realized as the development of other natural resources throughout Canada is progressively undertaken.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

The stomach is a muscular sac which does three things: it stores food which has been swallowed; it secretes gastric juice; and it originates vigorous churning movements which mix the juice through the food and also push the food out through the exit.

The normal, healthy stomach contains hydrochloric acid, or free acid, which is thrown out in varying amounts. The stomach also secretes a substance which in the presence of an acid becomes pepsin. Pepsin is helpful in breaking up proteins, such as meat, into more simple materials. Rennin is also secreted, which has the power of coagulating milk.

It is difficult to say how much gastric juice is thrown out by the average stomach in a day, but it probably amounts to about 100 tablespoonfuls. The gastric juice is caused to flow by two factors: First, the seeing, smelling or tasting of food which is attractive to you; and second, the actual presence of food in the stomach. Unpleasant feeling states due to worry, fear, dislike, etc., will show up the flow of gastric juice.

The stomach displays a great deal of intelligence in regard to how much gastric juice it secretes for the different foodstuffs. This same intelligence is also seen when it is time for the different materials to leave the stomach. Some are allowed to leave fairly quickly, others are held back and kept in the stomach for a much longer time.

The secretion which is the most active and most acid is reserved for the proteins, including meat and eggs, which foods are helped to digest by an acid juice. The starches, such as bread, do not bring about so active a flow of gastric juice, and milk excites an even weaker juice. Fats seem to slow down the flow of gastric juice the most of all, and also tend to stay in the stomach for a long time. Vegetables excite only a moderate or medium amount of acid and leave the stomach fairly rapidly.

How fast the food leaves the stomach depends partly upon what kind of food it is and partly upon whether it is mixed with other foods. Starch, used alone or with vegetables, will pass out of the stomach into the small intestine within three hours, most of it being gone within two hours. When mixed with meat, it seems to stay in the stomach longer. Protein remains in the stomach longer than starch, as it is an advantage to have it acted upon over a longer time by the acid of the stomach. The taking of fats with protein will further slow down the protein evacuation.

The foods which seem to disturb digestion most easily for most people are the following: foods mixed with fat, such as meat which has been fried in fat; onions; garlic; cucumbers mixed with vinegar and onions; and pickles.

Digestion is aided by proper cooking of starchy foods and legumes; by the use of simple mixtures; by staying away from rich gravies, cream sauces and highly seasoned foods; by avoiding excessive water drinking with meals; and by eating foods attractively prepared in a pleasant environment. When using starches, digestion proceeds better if the starches are thoroughly chewed. Another aid to digestion is to eat only when rested. When tired, or emotionally upset, skip the next meal or at least delay it.

Moderate exercise apparently helps digestion while strenuous exercise right after a meal appears to slow up digestion.

All in all, the stomach is remarkably efficient and will take care of a reasonable amount of food without any trouble. However, when it is abused by years of indiscriminate eating, it will sooner or later break under the burden and then the symptoms of digestive difficulty will present themselves.

Questions And Answers

QUESTION—Miss Josie B. inquires: "Why is it that I have a burning pain through the back of my neck which seems to run down across the shoulders? I am stoop-shouldered, from working over an office desk. This pain is much more likely to appear on the evenings after days when I have been rushed with work."

ANSWER: A habitual round-shouldered position frequently produces muscular soreness at the base of the neck and across the shoulders, due to the abnormal pull of the muscles in these regions, which pull comes from carrying the head too far forward. However, the pain you describe might be due to other causes. For example, it might be due to muscle tension produced because of tensed nerves, or it might be due to the fact that a misplacement of one or more of the cervical vertebrae has occurred. If the latter is true in your case, then a pain similar to that seen in neuritis might very easily result, due to impingement upon a nerve or nerves. Pelvic congestion is a common cause of a dull, dragging ache which localizes through the back of the head and neck. When such congestion is the cause, the taking of a hot Sitz bath will provide temporary relief from the aching sensation through the back of the neck. It has been my experience that many of the patients complaining of a pain through the top of the shoulder will be found to be suffering from colitis. You will probably find that massage, or rubbing, of the affected area, together with the application of heat will bring a measure of relief; however, if permanent relief is to be obtained this can only be secured through finding the cause of your distress and removing it. I suggest that the best plan is an examination. In the meantime, try to improve your posture, and learn to sit at your desk with the spine straight; also practice some relaxation exercises, to see if these measures will help.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng. (By Mail)—During the month of August the railways in this country carry 20,000,000 extra passengers in 40,000 extra trains. This fact was cited by a Conservative member in the course of a House of Commons debate in which he urged that, in the terms of his resolution, "the growing tendency to grant annual holidays with pay makes it advisable for the Government to take all possible steps to facilitate and encourage the even distribution of holidays throughout the summer months."

J. E. Norcross

Mr. Ernest Brown, the Minister of Labor, refused to accept the motion on the ground that a committee was sitting on the holiday question and that he expected the report very shortly.

The report came down a day or two later. It recommended a week's paid holiday for every worker in the country, a new fixed Bank Holiday in the spring, and a special department to deal solely with holidays.

The report was unanimous and Mr. Brown gave a broad hint that the Government would accept it. It will take time to bring in the necessary legislation but it is virtually assured that to the 5,000,000 people who at present get holidays with pay another 13,000,000 are to be added.

Moreover, Mr. Brown has intimated that something must be done about "staggering" holidays, that is, spreading them over at least five months of the year.

* * *

THE spread-over plan is not something altogether new in this country. The manufacturing populations of the towns of Lancashire and Yorkshire found out long ago that they could not all go to Blackpool at the same time and really enjoy themselves.

The cotton operatives, be it said, have been accustomed to their week off for years—but not on pay. The mills would close and the whole town shut up for seven days while everybody made for the seaside.

There are 108 such towns and they close in groups from June to September. Bolton is one of the June towns and the Bolton people grumbled at first. Now they would not change for anything. They enjoy their Blackpool when there is plenty of room for everybody.

To bring about general adoption of a spread-over plan it will be necessary to change certain customs. The school-year now ends early in July. It is proposed to make it end in December. Banks overhaul their accounts in July and January. Why not in April and October, it is asked.

A fixed Easter becomes absolutely essential, for it means a fixed Whitsuntide, the English general holiday which most nearly corresponds to Canada's May 24.

The holiday with pay seems to be won. The "staggered" holiday must now be secured.

Support The Grads

Editor, Bulletin: Being a Grad fan for many years, and of course never miss a game if it's possible to be in Edmonton when they are playing. I was very much interested in Sports commentator Gordon Williamson's remarks re the POOR attendances at their games.

I was at the game on Saturday night and seeing that the game of basketball is played at nearly all schools in Edmonton I was struck by the small number of children there.

Now here is a suggestion for the next series: Have three or four thousand tickets printed for kiddies at say 15 cents a game if all games are taken in; would it not have been a lot more enjoyable at the games if both ends of the Arena had been full of children, who incidentally are the future Grad supporters, instead of empty benches?

Perhaps the city fathers could help by giving free street car service for kiddies with tickets.

Surely our world famous Grads are entitled to better treatment at the hands of home-town residents.

Hoping to see a bumper crowd at future games.

A Day in Canadian History

By FRED WILLIAMS

Today is the anniversary of one of the historic battles on Canadian soil—one that, but for Britain's mastery of the sea, might have meant the loss of everything won by Wolfe and his successors on the Plains of Abraham and, perhaps, the retention of Canada by the French. Its story is one of the most glorious in the records of French arms in Canada.

During the winter of 1759-60, while General Murray, in command at Quebec, was striving to maintain his military position and at the same time conciliate the French-Canadians in and around Quebec, the great Chevalier de-Levis had been busy at Montreal, organizing a force to recapture Quebec. As soon as the river was navigable he set forth from Montreal with some 10,000 men, who were taken safely down the river and landed near Lorette. The French were well armed, they had ample guns and ammunition, and they were fired by the courage of desperation impregnated by their great leader. The British, in contrast, were half starved, poorly clothed, weakened by a terrible winter, and had but a limited supply of arms and material.

Quebec was surrounded. Murray, having little faith in the strength of the fortifications of the city, decided to give battle. At first the tide was with the Britons, but bit by bit numbers told, and eventually Murray had to retreat to Quebec, with a loss of 1,100 men and many valuable guns. The fleur-de-lis which had been lowered in defeat after the battle of the plains again blew to the breeze on Quebec soil!

Murray's position was desperate. The odds were against him. Levis, aided by ships brought down from Montreal, bombarded Quebec; his troops closed in step by step. If Murray would not come out again he could be forced to surrender. For a fortnight the siege went on. Daily, hourly almost, the British position became more desperate. But Murray and his men were stubborn. They would hold out until the end. Their one hope lay in the British navy. Would relief arrive before deLevis was able to achieve his triumph? It was a stand against time.

Eventually on May 9 a ship came up the river. The eyes of both generals, and of their followers, were rivetted on it. What flag would it display? The Cross of St. George and relief for Murray, or the French naval flag with hope for deLevis. Breathlessly they watched. A little ball ran up to her mast, hung for a moment and then broke out into the glorious white ensign!

Quebec was saved to the British. Murray had won, with the aid of the navy; and gallant deLevis had to retreat to Montreal, convinced that the last die had been thrown and that the destiny of Canada was decided. But he retired with honor. His fame and glory must ever live in our history as the fitting successor to Montcalm who, too, in the hour of despair showed courage and determination to go down fighting. What a contrast to his superior, Vaudreuil! On his return home deLevis was honored as was his due. He became a marshal and a peer of France, and died in 1787 amid tributes from those whom he had so valiantly fought, at and after Ste. Foye. The Chevalier de-Levis must always be a hero in Canada's story.

Nazi Stamp Is Placed On Austrian Schools to Train Youth in Credos

EDUCATION IS REVAMPED BY NEW REGIME

Post - Graduate Students Change Subjects Of Theses For Degrees

(Editors' Note—Hitler is remolding life in Austria so rapidly that old-timers remark Vienna no longer looks the same. One of the prime Nazi formulas is to convert the coming generations. In the following story, an Associated Press correspondent tells what is happening in the schools of Austria.)

By A. D. STEFFERUD
Associated Press Foreign Staff

VIENNA, April 28—An indelible Nazi stamp has been placed on all Austrian schools, from kindergartens to universities. Five-year-olds go home to ask their mothers if they are Jews and to lisp a few sentences they have memorized about Adolf Hitler.

Prospective doctors of philosophy are changing their theses subjects to conform more to the ideals, Education Minister Rust announced for the colleges; the moulding of national opinion, character building, and free research.

BOOKS REWRITTEN

Courses of study are being altered. Books are being rewritten or new ones introduced from Germany to avoid teaching the previous republican slant, especially in history. Classes start and end with "Heil Hitler."

In some a teacher reads from Reichsfuehrer Hitler's autobiography. The "numerous clausus"—representation in proportion to the population—is being invoked for students. Some Jewish teachers have been dismissed; the rest will be dischargd in time.

WORK REDUCED

Standards of amount and quality of work—so high and so strenuous some foreign parents resident here have refused to send their children to Austrian schools, fearing injury—have been lowered to allow more time for Nazi youth activities.

New regulations for Austrian universities include: Academic dignitaries to be replaced by men "having the confidence of the institution and the Nazi movement"; student organizations to be similarly purged; no new matriculations of Austrian Jews to be accepted for the coming summer semester.

Snow White's 'Phoney' Voice

Three years ago when Adriana Caselotti, above, was 18, she was a naughty little girl who listened in on the phone calls of her father, Guido Caselotti, Hollywood voice teacher. When the Walt Disney studio called one day asking him to find the right voice for Snow White, she piped "Me, me, me, how about me?" into the extension on which she had been eavesdropping. The studio liked her cheerful chirping, and she became the "voice" of the fairy story heroine. Now she hopes to become a movie actress.

AUSTRALIA PLANS FLOAT DEFENCE LOANS

CANBERRA, Australia, April 28—A bill authorizing defence loans totalling £10,000,000 ($50,000,000) was introduced in the house of representatives Wednesday by R. G. Casey, federal treasurer.

Prime Minister Joseph Lyons announced that Australia's defence expenditure for the next three years would be £43,000,000, of which £13,000,000 pounds will be spent on defence works before the end of the 1939 fiscal year.

He said the £43,000,000 will be divided as follows: navy £15,000,000, army £11,500,000, air force £12,500,000, munitions £3,000,000, organization of industry £1,000,000.

HIGH INTEREST RAIL BONDS TO BE QUESTIONED

OTTAWA, April 28—The subject of perpetual high-interest bearing Canadian National Railways bonds, inherited by the government when the system was consolidated, will be drawn to the attention of Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, the commons railway committee was told Wednesday by Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport.

The matter was brought up by A. M. Young (Lib. Saskatoon).

"The other day we were discussing the question of laying off men," he said. "Some members said that while men were being laid off capital was not made to suffer."

He could see no objection to making capital conform to present day interest rates.

Paper Reports Jap Conspiracy Outer Mongolia

MOSCOW, April 28.—A comparatively obscure Soviet newspaper, Bezbonjnik, Wednesday "revealed" discovery of a pro-Japanese conspiracy in outer Mongolia in January, 1937, involving the Grand Lama of the Mongol Buddhists.

The suggestion was also made that the late Marshal Demid, outer Mongolian war minister who was feted as a hero in Moscow that same month, was in the pay of Japan and that most of the Mongol officers who accompanied him on his state visit to the Soviet capital were Japanese spies.

Jackie Coogan Can Win Only Half Million

LOS ANGELES, April 28—Jackie Coogan, waging an accounting suit against his mother and his step-father, learned today that even if he wins all they have, he will get only $358,002.27 of the money he says he earned as a child actor.

This fact was the highlight of an inventory filed with the county clerk today, made by a receiver for the assets of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein. Jackie, in bringing suit, asserted he earned, from movie salary and royalties in the balmy days when he was "The Kid," $4,000,000.

Yesterday: The ship's farewell party is broken up when a passenger reports jewels stolen. Joyce thinks at once of Mrs. O'Hara.

CHAPTER XIX

IT was a curious assembly of the Empress' passengers in the main lounge. They still wore their ridiculous costumes, but with the mirth gone from their faces, the spectacle was depressing. In a bewildering moment, the atmosphere of lighthearted frivolity had been dispersed like smoke before the wind; now the air was heavy with concern. People squirmed uneasily in their seats and looked at each other with veiled suspicion in their eyes.

Captain Boyer stood behind a small flat-topped desk at the entrance to the lounge and fumbled nervously among some papers, while the purser standing alongside of him checked on a long list the names of passengers as they entered the rom. Mrs. O'Hara sat directly in front of the table, white-faced and trembling with grim indignation. By her side sat her husband, obviously worried and ill at ease.

Satisfied that every passenger was present and accounted for, Captain Boyer rapped for attention. He did it unnecessarily, for every eye in the room was upon him.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began. "I deeply regret the necessity for demanding your presence here, but a very serious loss has been reported by one of our passengers. Upon returning to her stateroom a few minutes ago, Mrs. O'Hara discovered that all of her jewels, which she estimates at some thirty thousand dollars, had disappeared."

There were gasps of astonishment, then a moment of incredulous silence. Thirty thousand dollars! Captain Boyer paused, to let the importance of this fact sink in.

"Why the devil should she bring such a load of jewelry along with her?" Dick whispered irritably.

"By getting together immediately," the captain went on, "I hope that we may hear something of interest while the events of the evening are still fresh in our minds." He spoke slowly, hesitating a bit after every few words, as if he were playing for time.

Presently, as Joyce glanced through the doorway, she understood why. Down the long corridor on "A" deck she could see the stewards slipping quietly and cautiously from one stateroom to another. Now, while all the passengers were gathered in the lounge, their rooms were being searched!

"Mrs. O'Hara, will you please tell us exactly when you last saw your jewelry, and when you discovered the loss?"

* * *

She stood up and spoke with vigorous anger. Her face was a picture of outraged fury, framed in an absurd mass of bobbing curls, and overshadowed by a wilted gardenia.

"My jewels were in a brown alligator bag," she reported, and Joyce remembered seeing her carry it as she came up the gangway that first night. "I locked it securely when we left our stateroom to come to the lounge. It was exactly a quarter past nine at that time. Half an hour ago, at ten minutes to ten, when I returned to the room for something, the bag was gone!"

The captain coughed discreetly. "I am curious to know, Mrs. O'Hara, why you left so valuable a collection unguarded in your cabin. You know that we ask the passengers to deposit such things with the purser, to be locked in the safe."

"I planned originally to wear my jewels this evening," Mrs. O'Hara replied pompously. "When I changed my mind and went back to the purser's office, I found it closed for the night."

"When you went back to the room this last time, did you see anybody in the corridor? Anyone who might have been in your room?"

An instant later he was to regret the question.

The woman took a long, deep breath; she pursed her lips in the grim manner of one who finds an inner glory in revealing some terrible fact. "Not then," she said. "But only a few minutes before, I saw a young woman hurrying to the ladies' lounge, very suspiciously, and she was hiding something in the folds of her costume."

Joyce felt her heart contract.

Mrs. O'Hara's black eyes were darting among the passengers, seeking her out. "There she is now!" she announced, pointing to Joyce. "That person over there, dressed like a Salem witch!"

Dick was on his feet in an instant. "I beg your pardon, Captain Boyer," he shouted in quick resentment. "This is going too far . . ."

"Of course, Mr. Hamilton." The captain's voice was weary. "Mrs. O'Hara is making no accusations. If the young lady will explain—"

* * *

Joyce stood up, her cheeks flaming, and so unnerved that she thought her legs would not sustain her weight. But she held her chin up, and her voice carried bravely and clearly across the lounge, as she tried to explain. Her costume had come apart; she was hurrying to fix it. She was holding it together, not concealing anything in it. As she sat down she felt every eye in the room upon her. She had the unhappy thought that not a soul believed her. Not one, except Dick.

"She's lying!" Mrs. O'Hara shrieked. "She's been acting queerly ever since she came on the boat. In this very room, I caught her cheating. And didn't she spend all her time with that thief named Gregory."

Dick jumped up again, his hands clenched convulsively. But before he could speak one of the stewards had entered the room. In his hand he carried a brown alligator case. He laid it on the table in front of Captain Boyer. Instantly every eye in the room was focused upon it; every mouth gaped in eager expectancy.

Slowly the captain turned the bag over, examined the catch. He saw that it had been deliberately broken; the bag fell open immediately, facing out toward the audience, and it was completely empty!

"Is this your jewel case, Mrs. O'Hara?"

"Where did you find it, steward?"

"In the ladies' lounge on 'A' deck, sir. Right down the hall."

Mrs. O'Hara spun around and stared at Joyce. So you weren't concealing anything, her look said, so plainly that every person in the room understood. You weren't concealing anything under your costume, were you? But my empty case was found in the ladies' room, just after you were in there!

Joyce made a move to rise, but before she could get to her feet, Dick had hold of her.

"This is the only thing I can do, Dick!" she pleaded. "I'll ask the captain to have my stewardess search me and search my room. Otherwise they'll never believe me!"

"You'll do no such thing!" he protested sharply. "When every other passenger is searched, then you can be. But not until then. You're not going to give that vicious old witch the satisfaction. I wish to God they'd let her drown in Bermuda!"

Now, one by one, the stewards were returning to the lounge, reporting discreetly to the purser, who immediately checked against the passenger list as they spoke to him. When the last one had come he handed the list across the table. Captain Boyer looked it over carefully before he turned to his anxious observers.

"That is all, ladies and gentlemen," he said quietly. "I thank you for your patience and courtesy."

* * *

The orchestra filed back into their places, and Joyce wondered if after all this fuss they expected to resume the party at the same high pitch of gaiety.

Dr. Gray and the chief officer were waiting on deck for them.

"There there!" the doctor said kindly, noticing Joyce's pole, drawn face. "You're not worrying about it, are you, child? You don't suppose we believe that whiskey-sodden pair? I said, mind you, when I saw her coming aboard that the woman would be making trouble."

"How dare she accuse Joyce?" Dick demanded furiously. "How dare she think we want her noisy baubles? If Joyce wants to deck herself out likt a carnival horse, I can buy her diamonds!" He was not boasting; in his anger the words expressed his simple reaction. And they expressed, too, in open confession, the desire that was in his heart.

The doctor's eyes twinkled. "Well, my boy! I think that's as broad a proposal as ever a man made to a girl. Did you hear it, Miss Milner?"

She turned aside quickly, embarrassed that the doctor should so purposely misunderstand. But Dick's eyes suddenly brightened; he caught her hands in his and drew her closer.

"Of course that's a proposal!" he avowed joyfully. "How about it, darling? Will you give me the right to tackle that O'Hara woman for you?"

Joyce looked up at him, and he read the answer in her eyes. All the warmth and tenderness and devotion which she felt in her heart welled up into them, testifying beyond all doubt to the truth of her love.

But a lump in her throat chocked her so that she could not speak; her lip trembled, and the tears started quickly. For an instant she fought against it, then abruptly she pulled her hands away and ran off to seek the solitude of her cabin.

Dick would have followed but the doctor stayed him. "Her nerves are on edge," he explained, "and no wonder. Let her have a good cry, son. She'll feel better for it."

In the corridor outside her cabin, she found her steward waiting for her.

"If you please, miss," he said quietly. "The captain would like to see you immediately. Will you come with me?"

She followed him dumbly, her heart pounding with a vague and unreasoning dread.

13,000-Mile Trip Of Toy Balloon Hits Skepticism

VERDUN, Que., April 28.—Frankly confounded, scientists withheld comment last night on the reported 13,000-mile flight of a nickel balloon from a schoolyard in this Montreal suburban city to Singapore, Straits Settlement.

Chemists at McGill University expressed surprise at such a flight, while students of Verdun High school, hurriedly subscribed $25 to reward Tchatung Lee, "a Chinese old man," who sent word of the balloon's arrival in Singapore.

The airmail letter, postmarked at Singapore, April 11, was received today by science teacher L. F. Bennett who helped four of his pupils fill the little green bag with hydrogen on the eve of a school hockey game March 1.

TORONTO, April 28.—John Patterson, director of the Dominion meteorological service here, said last night it was "impossible" for a cheap balloon to have travelled 13,000 miles from Verdun, Montreal suburb, to Singapore, Straits Settlement. A science class in Verdun, which despatched the balloon March 1, received an airmail letter postmarked April 11, reporting its arrival in Singapore.

IT WAS a bit of a nuisance, but one really didn't mind reading a paper which someone else had prepared and could not be present to give. That is, if the chairman was made to understand quite definitely that one was reading what someone else had written. Because "Adult Education" was quite out of one's line so to speak, and one didn't want to have to address such a learned gathering as delegates to a World Federation of Education Association conference on a subject with which one was distinctly unfamiliar.

Sharing with them some of the amusing experiences of her trip to the Orient last summer when she attended a world educational conference in Tokyo, Miss Maimie Simpson thus prepared members of the Soroptomist Club for the story of "one of life's darkest moments."

She had become a trifle weary herself listening to half-hour reports in a language she couldn't understand, and so determined to hurry through the paper she had been given to read.

First of all explaining to the chairman once more that she wasn't reading her own paper and so knew nothing of the subject matter, she spoke quite rapidly, synopsized some of the paragraphs as she went along, and finished, feeling just a wee bit proud of her accomplishment, in half the allotted time. She beamed, and the chairman beamed, and the audience beamed. The chairman rose and said, "Miss Simpson has done something very unusual. She has finished in 15 minutes And so ladies and gentlemen, we now have fifteen minutes for questions!" Those same "ladies and gentlemen" included some 400 leaders in educational circles the world-over.

TWILIGHT AT SEA

The twilight hours like birds flew by,
As lightly and as free;
Ten thousand on the sea;
For every wave, with dimpled face,
That leaped upon the air,
Had caught a star in its embrace
And held it trembling there.

First Church Y.P. Capture Play Honors

Revealing a high tone of dramatic ability, and considerable power of portrayal and insight into the parts assigned them, youthful actors appearing in the two plays presented one evening just recently in the play competition sponsored by the Young People's societies of the Presbyterian church, met with enthusiastic acclaim by their adjudicator, Mr. Fred Val Carey.

The winning play, "Crabbed Youth and Age," which was presented by members of the Y. P. of First church, had for its best actress Janet Cowan.

Others in the play were the Misses Alve Koerner, Thelma Sutherland, Isabel Grant, Messrs. Joe Trickey, David Bain, and Lorne Ross.

The second play, "Don't Believe It," the presentation of the Strathcona Young People's Association, was also excellently done, said Mr Carey. Cast of this play is as follows: the Misses Pam Annear and Ada Hosler, Messrs. Jim Dinwoodie, Ian MacIntosh and Bill Banham.

Members of the central executive of Presbyterian Young People, with Mr. Ralph Haynes, president, were in charge of the contest.

Club Activities

L. A. PLANS DISPLAY OF HOME BAKING

Mrs. H. E. Dodge is convener of the displays of home baking to be held by members of the East Side Ladies' Aid in the market-place on Saturday, and plans for the affair were made at a recent meeting of the Aid.

Devotional hour of worship was in the hands of Mrs. Dodge and Mrs. W. E. Wilson, and following the business meeting, tea was served. Mrs. D. Mackie and Mrs. E. W. Kelly were hostesses for the afternoon.

Soroptomists Hear Colorful Travel Talk

Proceeding to the Y.W.C.A. building following an attractively arranged dinner-meeting at the Corona hotel on Wednesday evening, members of the Edmonton Soroptomist club heard a fascinating travel-talk in which Miss Maimie Simpson shared with them her experiences as a delegate to a conference of the World Federation of Education Association held in Tokyo.

Mrs. E. P. Wellwood, vice-president of the group, occupied the chair in the absence of Miss Gladys Reeves who, as president, is attending a regional conference of Soroptomists in Victoria, and Miss F. E. Dodd introduced the speaker.

Miss Isabel Kippen, secretary, read the minutes of a previous meeting. Miss Helen Porter enumerated the ideals of the club, and Miss F. Stacey read the club pledge.

Miss Agnes Macleod was welcomed as a new member of the organization. Guests at the affair included Miss Jean McCallum, Mrs. W. G. Slocombe and Miss Naomi Lang.

Correct Grooming Is Summer Time Problem

By ALICIA HART

Beautiful Rosemary Lane is one of the four lovely Lane sisters—Lola, Rosemary, Priscilla and Leota. For the first time in a number of years, they are all working together in Hollywood. While at Simpson College, Rosemary majored in music and appeared in college dramatics. Then, one day, Fred Waring discovered her as she was trying out songs in a music store. She won fame and fortune as she appeared with Mr. Waring's band, both on the stage and radio. When the whole band went to Hollywood, Rosemary went too. Then when the band returned, she remained. She is rapidly climbing to the top in pictures.

Grooming is much more of a problem in the summer time than it was during winter months. Every beauty-minded woman finds it more difficult to keep hair fresh and soft looking, face and hands scrupulously clean, accessories spic and span and makeup in order when the weather is very hot.

Therefore, it's a good idea to begin now to plan ways and means to be attractive as well as comfortable during July and August.

You can, for instance, buy several washable, inexpensive summer dresses instead of one or two rather heavy models that always have to be dry-cleaned. This cuts down the strain on the budget, of course. Besides, a freshly laundered dress always gives spirits a lift on a particularly sultry morning. Then, too, you can see that the white collars and cuffs on the dark street dresses you do get are easily removable—perhaps snapped instead of sewed on.

You can take a vow that, for once in your life, not a single pair of summer shoes will be even a little bit too snug. You can lay in a supply of cologne and bath powder, get into the habit of using both after each bath. You can search for an anti-perspirant, trying several types until you find one that suits your skin and is truly efficacious. If you don't use an anto-perspirant, see that all of your summer frocks have dress shields in them.

LOOK COOL AND FEEL COOL

You know, don't you, that one who looks cools is more likely to feel cool and cmfortable? Try to plan your summer ahead, doing all the annual, bothersome duties around the house now instead of waiting until the pavements are hot and everyone is miserable. Don't leave the packing of the children's trunks, painting of the porch furniture or plans for your own vacation until the last minute. If you do, you'll be running around in circles, tired, too warm and nervous instead of cool-looking, poised and neatly groomed.

Then, too, it's a fine idea to make up your mind that you are going to enjoy every minute of summer. It will be hot. You know that, so you might as well be philosophical about the matter instead of railing against it and becoming as tired from complaining as from the heat. Get the kind of clothes that make for comfort, figure out a way to keep them looking neat as a pin, plan beauty routines that will keep your skin fresh and blooming, hair tidy. Reorganize the house, having cool, almost bare floors instead of thickly carpeted ones, packing away superfluous gadgets and putting white pots of dark green ivy in their place. And, whenever you find yourself too unhappy about the weather, try to remember that you were just as unhappy last winter when it snowed and was bitter cold.

COLORED KIDS

Probably a little more practical than the candy colored leathers, but still emphasizing the importance of color relief in accessories, are fine imported kid gloves, soft and flexible, in brown, black and blue inside.

EATON'S TRANS-CANADA SALE — THE SALE OF THE SEASON — FRIDAY & SATURDAY APRIL 29th & 30th

DOROTHY DIX Says:

THE other day a boy of 18 was killed by the police as he was robbing a jewelry store, trying to get a wrist watch for his girl. Investigation showed that it was his first offense. He belonged to decent people and was not a thief by nature. He was just a weak lad earning a small salary, and he was madly in love, as only an adolescent can be, with Rosie. Rosie wanted a wrist watch and was determined to have one. So she begged and cried and threatened until she drove him into stealing, since that was the only way to get her what she wanted.

It is a common enough story. The police will tell you that a large percentage of the boys who go wrong are started on the downward path by conscienceless little gold-diggers who do not care how they get money, just so they get it. Rosie must have her wrist watch. Sadie craves silk underwear and the latest thing in hats. Susie wants to flaunt herself at expensive places of amusement. And so Tom, Dick and Harry, who want their girls to think them big shots, and who haven't enough knowledge of women to see that they are being worked, or enough courage to resist feminine wiles, begin swiping automobiles, or holding out on their collections, or falsifying their books and start on the career that leads to the penitentiary and often to the electric chair.

Of course, these boys lack stamina, but older and wiser men than they have let their principles be dissolved in the tears of pretty women who cried for what they wanted until they got it. Many a man has sold his soul for the diamond bracelet that was the price of a woman's kisses. And many a man has been just as much held up and robbed by a pair of blue eyes in a woman's face as he could have been by a highwayman with a pair of blue-nosed revolvers in his hands.

Hence it is no wonder that a young inexperienced boy is unable to cope with the Girl Friend when she puts him on the spot. He lacks the wit to be dumb to her hints and her pleadings, and to estimate her cajoleries at their true worth. He lacks the grit to call her bluff when she threatens him with rivals with fatter pocketbooks. He just simply goes down without a struggle and there is no hope for him.

When I hear of a boy like that I always think of a story I once heard a jeweller tell. He said that one day a young man he knew, a poor boy but a fine young chap who was getting a good start with a big firm, stopped into his shop to set his watch. With him was a pretty young girl with whom he was obviously very much in love. Suddenly she turned to the boy and said: "If I asked you, would you give me anything in this case?" and with a careless laugh, thinking it a joke, he replied: "Why, of course." "Well, then," she said, "I'll take this ring."

"But," protested the jeweler, "that is very expensive. It cost a thousand dollars." "But it is what I want," said the girl, "and he promised it to me and I'm begging for it pretty, please."

The jeweler tried to protect the boy, but the girl insisted and in the end she had her way. The boy lacked the nerve to refuse her and with a hand that shook he wrote a cheque for it that called for more money than he had in the bank and to make it up he stole from his firm, was dismissed in disgrace and his promising career ended in the gutter.

When we think of predatory women who ruin men by their exactions, we picture them as hard-faced creatures who wheedle emeralds and pearls and fat cheques out of Sugar Daddies, but they are not the women who do the most harm, because men are on their guard against them and are wise to their tricks.

The women who are the most dangerous and the most to be feared are the little innocent-looking, baby-faced girls who prey on boys and make them spend more than they can afford to spend. They are the girls who are always having birthdays and hinting for expensive gifts; who order caviar and lobster newburg and high-priced drinks instead of beer and sandwiches when a boy takes them to a restaurant; who are always telling Tom about what perfectly wonderful orchids Dick sends them; who run boys into debt by their demands upon them.

Every girl nowadays knows just how far a dollar can go and she knows just how much a boy makes. When she induces him to spend more than he earns she is accessory before the crime when he steals.

200 Actors To Participate In Drama Finals

WINNIPEG, April 28. — More than 200 actors will compete in the Dominion Drama Festival in Winnipeg during the week May 16-21. Arrangements for their reception and entertainment are being made and advance sale of tickets promises capacity audiences.

Amateur talent representing cities throughout Canada will compete in 16 groups. Four full length and 12 short plays will be staged on a program arranged by the festival governors in Ottawa.

Barrett H. Clark, final adjudicator of the festival, will judge merits of the plays seen at the close of each performance and on Saturday evening will announce the winners and award the Bessborough trophies.

Various entertainments for the week are already being planned. Col. G. H. Aikins will be host to all competitors at a buffet luncheon May 17.

Alberta's entry, the University Dramatic Society's presentation of Thornton Wilder's "Happy Journey" will be seen on Saturday afternoon, May 21.

What To Do

By Phyllis Belmont

Who should step off a street car first—the man or woman? And who should enter first? If a man helps the woman on a car should he then go ahead and lead her to a seat? These questions may sound foolish, but I see both ways done and it is a question which is correct. Thank you. MRS. F. S. C.

Answer—The street car or bus is virtually the only instance where we do not find a public servant to offer assistance. So the man steps off first to see that the street is clear of passing vehicles, and assists the woman as she gets off. The man always helps the woman on the street car and she goes ahead and finds a seat while he pays the carfare; the street cars today are mostly the pay-as-you-enter type. The woman takes her place next to the window, the man sitting on the aisle-side, so he can conveniently leave first when they reach their destination.

TO REMOVE PAINT FROM GLASS

Paint spots on window glass may be removed by rubbing with a soft cloth saturated with alcohol or turpentine. Varnish spots may also be removed by the same method.

Something cold for luncheon in warmer weather? Yes. But you need another something that is warm. Warm biscuits or hot soup on one side of the menu and on the other place a salad or a cold entree.

CREAMY CHEESE ENTREE

(Serves 6)

One package lemon flavored gelatin, 1½ cups hot water, ½ tablespoon vinegar, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon minced onion, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ cup grated American cheese, ½ cucumber, diced, ¼ cup diced green papper.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add vinegar and salt. Chill. Combine milk, paprika, onion and mayonnaise and beat with rotary egg beater to blend. When gelatin is slightly thickened beat in mayonnaise mixture. Combine remaining ingredients and fold at once into gelatin mixture.

Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with whole radishes.

AFTERNOON TEA BISCUITS

(2½ dozen small biscuits)

Two cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup butter or other shortening about ¾ cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds, or enough to shape. Roll ½ inch thick and cut with floured 1½ inch biscuit cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes.

Tomorrow's Menu

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, broiled halibut, lemon and watercress garnish, creamed potatoes, green beans, lettuce and olive salad, chocolate cottage pudding, coffee, milk.

Raising A Family

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The most beautiful thing about childhood is its spontaneousness. This means the uncontrived and unpremeditated art of living.

O R Barton

Reactions now are quick and genuine, and behavior is not carefully planned ahead, as happens with older people. The child lives in the moment, likes things quickly, and is as quick to reject. He enjoys to the fullest everything he sees or does. He only loses his spontaneity when he is too constantly rebuffed. Then he begins to calculate and weigh. He holds back and becomes repressed.

Naturally there are certain things he is learning with each day's experience, that warn against repeating. His own good sense and ideas of fairness, however, tell him that he must not be too utterly at large. He rather likes to know what is allowed and what is not allowed, as long as it leaves him a wide range of happiness.

This spontaneity in children is a precious thing and should be cherished. There is no beauty in the over-regulation of too perfect discipline. It robs our little folk of their natural birthright—frankness. The child who can look us squarely in the eye and utter his inmost thoughts is a treasure indeed. Why do we hush him so often? Why do we have to look behind his honesty and criticize? I believe that our over-anxiey to teach politeness and correctness, superficially, I mean, often accounts for a certain loss of honesty.

Mother, the brash conduct over which you shudder is merely "spontaneity," much of the time.

The child who fondles her baby doll's curls may hate her own straight hair and get the scissors one day and do a little barbering on her own head. She is not being deliberately naughty, but just acting on a quick impulse to change her appearance. Why punish her?

It requires a great deal of sorting to be able to tell when a child is being merely impulsive or motivated by planned thought. But when unexpected things happen, and they always do with our unpredictable children, then please allow for nature.

Who can help admiring the little boy or girl who speaks out honestly? Yet, while they are still quite young, we expect these children to know what to say in meeting and what not to say.

Spontaneity can be guided but should be allowed to live. It is one thing to condition or discipline a child, but another to squeeze out all his responses to life, which, once he learns to conceal them, makes him an actor playing an artificial part that is not his real self.

'SALADA' TEA is delicious

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

GLASS WINDOWS ARE NOT A MODERN INVENTION

It is usually inferred that the use of glass windows in houses is a rather recent discovery of man, but the truth is that it is an old device. Quantities of flat glass have been found in excavations of ancient structures of old Pompeii, and some of the window openings still contained glass in them when uncovered. The use of glass for windows has been proved to antedate the Roman invasion of England, and St. Jerome states that it was thus used in his time (A. D. 422). Thus it is evident that what we have taken to be the time of discovery or invention of glass for windows was merely the rediscovery, or revival, of it.

LONDON CLOSING

LONDON, April 28.—Tobacco, shipping and liquors shares led the upturn in the stock market today but final quotations were below the best prices. The gilt edged division was well supported with oils and rubbers in good demand. Transatlantic securities reacted after early firmness and finished fractions to a point below Wednesday's finals. Home rails and foreign bonds remained quiet.

Closing: Brazil $11½; C.P.R. $6⅜; Int. Nick $45⅝; U.S. Steel $44⅜; Anglo Dutch 25s 7½d; Consol Gold Fields 37s 9d; Courtaulds 41s; H.B.C. 20s 6d; Woolworth 68s 3d.

Bonds: Brit. 2½ per cent Consols (74⅝); Brit. 3½ per cent. war loans (101¼); Brit. funding 4s 1960-90 (112⅞).

GRAIN INSPECTIONS

WINNIPEG, April 28.—Inspections Wednesday: Wheat this year 268, last year 408; cars of contract wheat 191; oats 92-32, barley 37-9, flax 0-6, rye 4-5. Other grains 1-0.

WHEAT PRICES UP SLIGHTLY

WINNIPEG, April 28—Threats of army worms, grasshoppers and rust in the United States southwest winter wheat belt and above average durum export buying caused Winnipeg wheat futures to move slightly higher today. Final quotations were ¾-⅝ cent higher May $1.20; July $1.10⅞; Oct. 89⅜ cents.

Volume was small and prices slowly recovered from opening fractional declines. Gains of almost a cent were posted near the close.

There was good buying of May future by export interests.

Investors regained confidence on reports Italy was attempting to barter for Argentine wheat and Oklahoma farmers' reports that they are preparing to fight army worm and grasshopper invasions. They also reported actual rust damage to winter wheat.

Liverpool closed ⅛d lower to ¼d higher. Buenos Aires at noon was ⅜-½ cent up.

Red Springs cash wheat dealings were slow but spreads remained unchanged. Good export interest in durums accounted for a two-cent spread improvement for No. grade at one time.

Coarse grain futures moved narrowly in a drab session.

LIVERPOOL, April 28—Reports of Italy inquiring for Argentine wheat caused futures to steady, and final prices were ¼d higher to ⅛d net lower. Earlier the market was off as much as ½d.

Broomhall

Only a few scattered export sales were reported yesterday with a few loads of Manitoba's and a little Australian. With the British government's announcement that a reserve had been already purchased for the first stage of an emergency confirmed the recent rumor that six or eight million bushels of wheat had been bought for government account despite official denials. The amount is insignificant but at any rate it shows that the intention is there and that higher taxes will be necessary to accumulate reserve supplies of foodstuff. Favorable weather prevails generally, unconfirmed rumors that some rain fell in Italy. Good rains in the United States and showers again in Canada besides rains in the Argentine.

Aston Villa Now Virtual Champion English Football

LONDON, April 28.—Aston Villa defeated Bradford 2-0 Wednesday to become virtual champions of the English Football League's second division. The Villans need only one point in their retaining game to take undisputed possession of first place.

In the event Aston Villa loses against Norwich City, Manchester United and Coventry City must win their two outstanding matches by mammoth scores to match the Midlanders' goal average. The Villans, demoted from the major league two years ago, now have a two-point margin at the top of the division.

ENGLISH LEAGUE—DIV. I

Chelsea 1, Charlton 1.

DIV. II

Aston Villa 2, Bradford 0.

SOUTHERN SECTION—DIV. III

Bristol City 2, Mansfield Town 1.

NORTHERN SECTION—DIV. III

Darlington 2, Chester 1.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE—DIV. I

Ayr United 1, Partick Thistle 1.

Pinch-Hitter Pops Wallace To Floor

NEW YORK, April 28.—George Znegaras of New York, rushed in as a last minute substitute, upset the "dope bucket" last night by flattening Frankie Wallace of Cleveland for the full count in the seventh round of their 10-round bout.

The battle was to have been between Montanez and Wallace but the Porto Rican was kept from action by a sore throat.

Authorities Take Action To Curb Undulant Fever

Test of Cattle To Be Enforced By Local Board

Suspension Of Licenses Or Pasteurization Only Alternatives To Testing, City Health Executives Decide At Meet

Occurrence of eight cases of undulant fever here during the past year resulted in action by the city health board Wednesday to enforce testing of dairy cows whose milk causes the malady.

Twelve Edmonton district dairymen have so far refused the board permission to inspect their herds, and the board decided Wednesday that if tests in these cases were not permitted by May 11 city dairy licenses held by the 12 would be suspended.

PASTEURIZATION

The only alternative to suspension of licenses is for the milk producers to send their milk to pasteurization plants or pasteurize it themselves. Dr. G. M. Little, city medical health officer, reported that pasteurization of the milk—raising it to about 145 degrees Fahrenheit and keeping it there for 30 minutes—kills undulant fever germs.

It has been determined that undulant fever can be contracted by persons through the consumption of infected milk, or by coming in contact with diseased animals. The disease in cattle which causes undulant fever is known as Bang's disease, or "bovine infectious abortion."

When transmitted in undulant fever form to humans, the malady causes recurring physical weakness, the patient's temperature going up and down—hence the name "undulating" fever. The fever may extend over a period of many months.

RARE DISEASE

A rare disease, the fever has a low death-rate, being about two in every hundred cases. Prior to 1937 only two cases of the disease had been reported in Edmonton, according to city medical records. But last year there was a sudden increase in the occurrence, eight cases being recorded by the health department. This year one case has occurred—a man who was taken sick January 4, admitted to hospital and recently released.

The board was informed there were 51 dairymen operating in the Edmonton district, these herds supplying milk to the city. Several months ago Dr. Little, alarmed by the increase in undulant fever, requested dairymen to permit the health department to make free

BOOSTERS CLUB GIVEN BACKING EDMONTON C. C.

Endorsation of the Boosters Club of sportsmen which is working for the formation of an Edmonton rugby team was given Wednesday by the council of the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting in the Hudsonia.

A. Downes, executive member of the club, and also a Chamber member, reported to council on the progress thus far made and urged a cordial response to the appeal now underway for support.

The council unanimously lauded the project and welcomed the establishment of a rugby team in the Western Canada Conference.

The Inquiring Reporter

"Attractive stenographer will marry refined gentleman for $5,000. Box 2, C591-Post."

Such was the wording of a want-ad which appeared in the Denver Post recently. Wondering just what kind of results might be expected from an ad such as that, The Bulletin Inquiring Reporter showed it to several unattached males and asked them:

"How could you go for a proposal like that?"

Here's what they had to say:

JACK JACKMAN, agent: I haven't got $5,000 and anyway I am very busy this morning, and I'm not contemplating matrimony.

• • •

JACK STEWART, law student: If she is so attractive why does she have to advertise for a husband. Surely a really attractive stenographer would have plenty of offers.

• • •

ED. MacRAE, policeman: Strictly between the two of us, my guess is that the gal didn't want a husband—what she wanted was publicity—she was probably figuring on a movie picture contract.

• • •

• • •

BOB FOLINSBEE, student: Now there is a girl who shows she has energy, initiative and enterprise. I wish her lots of luck, but as far as I'm concerned—I would rather have a clinging vine.

EDMONTON TO BASK IN FAIR, WARM WEATHER

By BILL RAYNER

Spring has come, so now's the time
To tell the weather story in rhyme.

A peek in the weather man's bag of tricks
Shows Wednesday's high reading of sixty-six,
While Thursday a.m., when the clock struck five
Had the overnight low of thirty-five.

The sun is beginning to stay out late,
He won't set Friday evening 'til eight.
At 9 a.m. Thursday, temperature fifty-four,
A "fair and warm" forecast promised some more.

Now there's the local weather in verse,
Weather couldn't be better, verse couldn't be worse!

Only two of the near north readings at 8:30 a.m. Thursday were under the 40 above mark, the coolest of the pair being Beaverlodge, with 30 above, while the other culprit was Grouard, with 38 above. Pelican beat out several other over-fifty readings to take the warmest mark with 55 above.

Aklavik continues to improve its weather report, 5 a.m. Thursday finding the temperature there at 8 above, the coolest in the area. Fort Smith, with 38 above, was the warmest spot in the region at that time.

Lots Of Kickers

OTTAWA, April 28.—The government's action in raising radio license fees was opposed by 1,246 persons and favored by 14 in communications received by the transport department, the House of Commons was informed today. Fees were boosted from $2 to $2.50 this year. The information was contained in answer to a question by C. E. Johnston (S.C., Bow River).

Military Orders

1ST BN, THE EDMONTON REGIMENT (49TH C.E.F.)

Orders by Lt. Col. P. L. Debney.

Duties: Orderly officer for the week ending April 30th, 1938, 2-Lt. L. F. Dawes. Next for duty, Lieut. J. H. Adams.

Parades: The battalion will parade on Friday 29th April, 1938 at 20:00 hours. Dress, uniform. The battalion will parade on Monday 2nd May, 1938, under Company arrangements. Dress, mufti.

Vacancies: There are still a number of vacancies for good recruits who should report to the battalion orderly room No. 51 on any Monday or Friday evening.

R. J. Pratley, Capt. and Adjt., 1st Bn. The Edmonton Regiment.

LEGION OF FRONTIERSMEN "A" SQUADRON

Parade for Friday, April 29, 1938, cancelled. All ranks are reminded of the general parade of Edmonton units at the Royal George hotel, Saturday, April 30, 1938, at 20:30 hours. Dress—uniform, service or undress.

Signed: H. S. Reynolds, Capt., O.C. "A" Squadron.

SONG, DANCE TEAM VOTED FIRST PLACE

Leonard Peters and Kenneth Quinn "Tops" On Radio Talent Program

To the ranks of the winners of the program in The Edmonton Bulletin's Search For School Talent, there is an addition this week of Leonard Peters and Kenneth Quinn who did a song and dance act, on the April 20 program, for which they won the acclamation of hundreds of voters. Leonard is ten years old and attends Norwood school, while Kenneth who is eleven, is a student at the Highlands.

The boys received a five dollar bill from The Bulletin; and each were presented with a Parker pencil by D. A. Kirkland of Henry Birks and Sons. The two youngsters will be guest performers at the Community Sing at the Strand theatre next Tuesday evening.

On Wednesday evening's program another eight rising young entertainers came to the microphone to give performances of acts upon which they have work tirelessly and to vie for this week's prizes

The only way in which the listeners may signify their approval is through using the voting ballot appearing each Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. The entertainer receiving the most votes will be declared the winner of the April 27th program.

$300 JUDGMENT GIVEN AGAINST ALBERTA TOWN

Damages amounting to $300 were awarded Rosarie Lafleur, Vegreville, against Vegreville town for breach of a rental-purchase contract, by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie in supreme court Thursday.

Mr. Lefleur claimed that the town council agreed to rent him a livery barn on a monthly basis of $10, monies thus paid to be applied to purchase price, with title of the property to pass when $500 had been paid.

Without consulting Mr. Lafleur, and in violation of this contract, it was alleged, the town sold the livery barn to Wallace Wade. It was pleaded by the town that the agreement was contrary to the Town Act, making it illegal for the town council to enter into the agreement. It was also pleaded that the plaintiff did not live up to the terms of the agreement.

Mr. Justice Tweedie found there was a valid contract and gave judgment for the plaintiff.

Police Court

Arnold J. Tourigny, suave, handsome diamond drill expert who has been prominent in prospecting circles in the new northern mining fields, was brought back from Fort Saskatchewan jail where he is serving a month sentence imposed when he was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of an Edmonton high school girl who was later married to his brother Claude, to answer three new charges arising out of the same case.

The new charges are perjury, arising out of evidence he gave at his trial; conspiring with his brother Claude to commit an abortion upon the girl, and administering drugs to the girl for the purpose of procuring a miscarriage.

He did not plead in police court Thursday, when he appeared before Magistrate A. H. Gibson, but was granted an adjournment until May 6.

• • •

A man known as Clinton S. Kinraid, but who insists that his right name is Oscar M. Ross, appeared for preliminary hearing of a charge of procuring an abortion upon an Edmonton girl. He was committed for trial.

• • •

Nick Pawliuk, appearing for sentence on a charge of giving his wife a black eye, was sentenced to serve one month with hard labor in Fort Saskatchewan jail.

• • •

James Conley, convicted of vagrancy, was given 24 hours to leave town with the option of spending six months in Fort Saskatchewan jail.

• • •

Joe Gardecki, convicted of three charges of committing an indecent act, was sentenced to serve three months with hard labor in Fort Saskatchewan jail, on each charge, sentences to be served concurrently.

• • •

Nick Bosowich was fined $1 without costs for operating a bicycle at night without a light.

• • •

R. D. White was fined $1 for not observing the traffic lights at 101 street and Jasper avenue.

• • •

Students Across United States Go On Strike Against War

WILD SCENES ARE ENACTED AT MEETINGS

Eggs Fly As Rightists and Leftists Heckle Each Other

NEW YORK, April 28—Students in many parts of the United States went on strike Wednesday against war, dramatizing their anti-aggression campaign in such stunts as a re-enactment of the Boston tea party and organizing a mass exodus to the South Seas in the event of fighting.

Even among the peace advocates there was war, however, with eggs and jeers for ammunition. Rightists and Leftists heckled each other from New York to California and vied for attendance at rival mass meetings.

ADHERENTS BOUND

The American Students Union, principal sponsor of the fifth annual demonstration, bound its adherents to a new peace pledge, replacing the "White Feather" Oxford oath used at previous anti-war rallies. The new oath says:

"Because we want to keep America out of war, we pledge ourselves to make our government a force for peace; because Fascism would destroy our generation, we rededicate ourselves to the struggle for democracy."

In Boston, a student group, some in Indian regalia, went to the waterfront, where their forbears sank British tea, and dumped into the harbor crates labelled "Italy," "Germany" and "Japan."

GIRLS ENLIST

Johns Hopkins students in Baltimore formed a "south sea island brigade" with the slogan, "don't sit in the trenches; sit on the beach," and Goucher college girls enlisted enthusiastically.

In New York, where the demonstration sponsors estimated 90,000 high school and college students left their classrooms for rallies, 40 policemen kept peace between rival camps in Madison Square park and Washington Square.

Japan Drops Action Against New Yorker

YOKOHAMA, April 28.—Japanese police today decided to drop proceedings against Elwyn Gibbon, 27-year-old New Yorker arrested on charges of having flown for the Chinese Air Corps. He was taken from the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia five days ago. His wife continued her journey to Vancouver.

Record Entry Reported For Music Contest

DRUMHELLER, April 28.—Ninth annual district musical festival opened here Wednesday morning with a record entry in junior classes, elocution adjudicator Betty Mitchell being literally swamped with competitors which kept her working from 8:30 a.m. until close to midnight. Vernon Barford of Edmonton is adjudicating the musical classes which also are exceptionally heavy this year. Secretary Mrs. J. G. Harrison reported over 450 entries in the various classes. The festival will conclude Friday evening with a public concert featuring first prize winners.

SUBSIDIES FOR HOUSING PLAN ARE PROPOSED

Hon. H. H. Stevens Urges Assistance to Municipalities in Building

OTTAWA, April 28.—A system of Dominion subsidies to municipalities, based on tax collections on real estate, was urged in the House of Commons Wednesday by Hon. H. H. Stevens (Recon., Kootenay East), during debate on the government's 1938 relief legislation.

"I think the Federal government," he said, "could and should offer to pay in the form of a subsidy to every municipality in Canada, a sum equal to 25 per cent of the taxes derived from real estate on the condition the municipalities will not increase the assessment rate or the assessment over a period of years."

ACT AS IMPETUS

The subsidy would act as an impetus to a nation-wide housing and construction program the former Conservative cabinet minister considered impossible with existing high taxes on real estate.

"If we can start a general, nation-wide movement in housing, it will take us 30 years to catch up (to requirements), leaving aside growth and population."

Later, it could be extended to rural parts of the country, particularly the older sections "where housing conditions are lamentable."

A recent survey in Saskatchewan showed a considerable proportion of homes in that province had no factory-made furniture.

JOB OPPORTUNITY

A national housing program offered the biggest opportunity to provide jobs, Mr. Stevens declared. Not only that, but it would give an impetus to industrial development because of the money spent on construction.

"We are faced with economic problems that should engage the attenton of this house to the exclusion of all others," he suggested, noting there were only three cabinet ministers in the house during the discussion. Relief legislation was one of the most important to be considered during the session "and there is comparatively little attention paid to it."

THREE CHARGED WITH ROBBERY AND VIOLENCE

VANCOUVER, April 28—Vancouver police Wednesday charged three men with robbery with violence in connection with the $1,700 jewel holdup of Mrs. Cecilia Hall in a west-end apartment Saturday night.

The men, who gave their names as Murray Rome of New York, Eugene Sinclair and Leo Cody of Vancouver, were charged after victims of the holdup viewed an identification line-up.

Mrs. Hall and janitor Robert Lockie and his wife were bound and gagged in the apartment Saturday by an armed bandit trio, who escaped with two rings valued at $1,700.

The three men were arrested after detectives staged two early morning raids on downtown hotels.

Boat Building For Defence Of France Planned

PARIS, April 28.—Louis de Chappedelaine, minister of merchant marine, announced Wednesday he planned a three-year merchant marine construction program to augment French coastal defences. The plan, which the minister said would embody reconstruction of the fishing fleet, contemplates building new, fast vessels suitable for use as patrol ships.

RUSSO - JAPAN DEADLOCK IS ANNOUNCED

MOSCOW, April 28—Soviet Russia last night announced a deadlock in efforts to compose troubled relations with Japan in the Far East.

An official communique declared the Soviet Union had appealed to Tokyo to meet them half way in settlement of nearly a dozen disputes which have caused Russo-Japanese friction to increase in recent months.

The announcement disclosed Ambassador Mikhail Slavutsky visited Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in Tokyo April 4 proposing five concessions from Japan in return for a similar number from Russia.

Hirota countered by further Japanese demands and a refusal of part of the Soviet program, the communique said.

Catholic Paper Ignores Nuptials Albania's King

VATICAN CITY, April 28.—Although the Italian press last night published long reports of the marriage of King Zog of Albania and Hungarian Countess Geraldine Apponyi, the Observatore Romano, official Vatican organ, ignored the event.

Silence of the papal newspaper was attributed to the hostility of the Catholic church to mixed marriages. The Albanian monarch is a Moslem, his bride a Catholic.

Removal Arms Plants To Canada Suggestion Made

OTTAWA, April 28.—Suggestion British manufacturers of munitions, arms and steel be invited to move their plants to Canada was made in the House of Commons Wednesday by J. R. MacNicol (Con., Toronto-Davenport).

He thought the manufacturers would be willing to take their plants away from the danger of bombing raids and suggested the government get in touch with British government officials on the matter.

Demands For Work - Wages Scheme Made

CALGARY, April 28.—Demand that work-with-wages program be established in Calgary to take the place of the present "relief doles" will be placed before the city council by William Ainscough, secretary of the Unemployed Married Men's Association whose members are now on strike.

In a letter, addressed to Mayor Andrew Davison and council members, it is declared failure to comply with the demand by May 5 "will be sufficient evidence to call for a showdown" with the council on relief costs and make a direct appeal to the federal authorities.

R. G. BROWN OF CADOMIN DIES ON WEDNESDAY

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CADOMIN, Alta., April 28.—Richard George Brown, 48, died of a heart attack late Wednesday morning, the seizure occurring some twelve hours earlier. The late Mr. Brown was well known in the Edmonton district having engaged in farming at Jarrow and in mine work in Edmonton and Pocohontas previous to and a short while after the Great War. He had been a resident of Cadomin for 16 years, coming here with his family from Edmonton.

Mr. Brown was born in Carmarganshire, South Wales, coming to Cardiff, Alta., in 1907. He joined the 51st battalion on January 7, 1915, and went overseas with that unit, later being drafted to the 31st. He was discharged April 29, 1918, as medically unfit due to wounds received in action.

He was employed by the Cadomin Coal Co. until July, 1936, when he was appointed secretary and manager of Cadomin branch, Canadian Legion B.E.S.L.

Surviving Mr. Brown are: four daughters, Mrs. L. Deitz, Mrs. J. Ferguson, Mrs. Craig Lee of Cadomin, Betty of Vancouver; one son, Frank; three brothers, Jack and Fred, of Edmonton, and Alan, of Coleman; two sisters, Mrs. Geo. Williams and Mrs. J. Woodrow, of Vancouver.

The funeral will be conducted at the Legion hall Thursday with Captain Geo. Noble, vice-president Cadomin Legion, officiating. Interment will take place Friday in the family plot at Edson. The Legion burial service will be conducted there by Cadomin Legion President S. Davis.

Alberta Loans Are Renewed By Dominion

OTTAWA, April 28—Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, tabled Wednesday orders-in-council providing for renewal and consolidation of a series of Dominion loans to the prairie provinces and British Columbia. The loans mature during April and May and the respective provinces asked for their renewal. Consolidation was effected as a matter of convenience.

Four Alberta loans totalling $2,007,198 were renewed and consolidated under authority of the Unemployment Relief and Assistance Act, 1936. An Alberta treasury bill for $2,007,198, due April 15, 1939, bearing interest and three per cent yearly was accepted as security.

Single Ruling Body Is Said To Be Enough

TORONTO, April 28.—One governing body for Canada, instead of 10 as at present, is sufficient to administer the "divine economic law" laid down in the Bible, the British Israel World Federation submitted Wednesday in a submission filed with the Rowell commission.

The federation proposed abolition of the provincial legislatures and election of a "government body" of 70 members who would also form the administrative councils of the respective provinces. The prime minister would be appointed by the King.

Nazi Spying In Switzerland Is Charge Of Church

GENEVA, April 28.—German spies take notes on sermons in Swiss Protestant churches, check up on all Swiss newspapers and send complete reports home to their Reich superiors on all anti-Nazi activities in Switzerland, a statement by the Protestant Church Press Bureau declared last night. The bureau called on the federal government to take energetic steps.

Council Discusses Construction New Storm Sewers

The matter of building storm sewers or the extension of the domestic sewer service to the east of Waskasoo Creek was a major topic at the last meeting of the Red Deer city council. Dr. L. A. MacLean, head of the Red Deer Full Time Health District, was present and spoke of some complaints regarding sanitary problems which he had received from residents east of Waskasoo Creek. Due to suggestions that there might be an extension of the sewer system some people thought that they might neglect upkeep of their septic pool facilities. The doctor asked that the council let him know as soon as possible what was proposed in regard to sewer construction. After some discussion council decided that Dr. MacLean invite the provincial chief sanitary inspector to visit Red Deer, and if possible, meet city council.

Clean-Up Day Not To Be Observed At Red Deer

The garbage collection system started in Red Deer last May is working so successfully that clean-up day will not be observed this year. At their last meeting the Red Deer Board of Trade decided that they would not sponsor the special day this spring. In other years the Board has set aside a certain day for clean-up day when citizens were asked to clean-up their premises. City teams would haul away tin cans and other rubbish and a special effort was made to improve the look of the city. With the garbage collection system operating [illegible] the lanes are free of their usual ash piles and boxes and barrels of tin cans this spring.

Boards Of Trade Will Co-Operate More Closely

Red Deer Board of Trade and the young men's section of the Board of Trade have made arrangements to co-operate more closely than in the past. President C. A. R[illegible]son of the young men's section, and M. L. Gordon, president of the senior board, together with other members, held a recent meeting and discussed ways and means of closer co-operation. As a result it was recommended that each section appoint an official representative to attend the meetings of the other board. W. J. Botterill has been selected as representative of the senior board and a representative from the young men's section will be named at the section's May meeting. In addition to the official representative other members are also welcomed at meetings of either board.

GRADS AGAIN WIN DOMINION CROWN

SPORTS BULLETIN

Looking Them Over

Yellow Balls

Another Feller?

The Dean Problem

NOW let's see. The Grads' winning of the Dominion championship for another year has been dealt with over on the right hand side of this page. Right next to this column the matter of the impending hostilities between Tebo and Wenstob has been brought up to date, and between the two of these stories you will find a resume of baseball activities down at Renfrew Park.

That pretty well covers the Edmonton situation, so we'll offer a few gleanings from here and there.

The latest source of major league ball talk is the suggestion that the balls be made yellow instead of white. The proposal comes from Frederic H. Rahr, a New York color architect, who contends that since yellow is the most visible of all colors it is the logical hue for the pellet. Several dozen balls of this bright yellow color have already been produced by the factory that supplies the National League and are scheduled to be tried out in a college game in New York this week.

Rahr seems to have some good sound logic behind his suggestion. Scientists have known for a long time that yellow is the most visible of all colors, especially when applied to an object in rapid motion. That is the reason that traffic markers and airport signs are in yellow. On the other hand, white reflects all the colors around it. When the outfield bleachers are filled on a hot day with fans in white shirts, batters sometimes completely lose sight of the ball after it leaves the pitcher's hand. Efforts have been made at some parks to offset this by a green screen on that section of the outfield fence in line with the batter and pitcher. This means a loss of around 1,000 seats, however, which is too costly altogether.

Rahr first got to thinking about improving the visibility of the ball when Mickey Cochrane crumpled up at the plate in Yankee Stadium last summer when Bump Hadley's pitch hit him on the head. It was a "sailer" that Hadley threw and Mickey says he lost sight of it completely when it was about eight feet from the plate.

Experiments show that the yellow ball is also easily seen under the flood lights in night games. If Rahr is right in his contentions, and science backs him up, [illegible] if nothing else. However [illegible] improve the hitting—and it is just possible that the umpires might be able to [illegible] a strike [illegible] plenty of fans that will tell you there are players who couldn't hit the ball even if it were equipped with head and tail lights.

Anyhow it will take years before the old die-hard conservatives of the game will ever consent to bright yellow balls, so there is no need for immediate alarm.

Another Gold-Plated Pitcher?

WHEN ball fans aren't talking about yellow pellets they're probably [illegible] cisco. Yankee scouts have made special trips to the Golden Gate city [illegible]

Reports persist around Albany High, where they should be fairly reliable, that young Ritter has been offered a $49,000 contract by the Yankees. It is for seven years at $7,000 per annum and stipulates that he is to go ahead and finish his education before reporting to the team. This actually amounts to a retainer fee of $7,600 for each of the five years it will take him to finish high school and university.

Ritter is a big, strapping lad who weighs 180 pounds and looks and [illegible] Jake Ruppert interested in him to the extent of forty-nine grand. The Yanks appear to have taken a lesson from Cleveland and decided to start catching 'em young—like the Indians got Bob Feller.

Eyes Of Traders On Dean

THE eyes of every shrewd trader in baseball will be on Dizzy Dean throughout this season, watching with fascination to see if Phillip K. Wrigley of the Cubs got "taken" again in the deal that brought the incredible hillbilly of baseball to Chicago. Did Branch Rickey of the Cardinals make a bum guess for once and sell Dizzy too soon?

That is the question which only the end of the present season can answer. If Dean can make good his boast of winning 30 games, Rickey will have pulled a boner, for that should just about give the Cubs the pennant and handsomely repay the price paid for Dizzy. But even if the Great One fails to win 30 games, his fiery personality is going to draw a good many additional of thousands of dollars to Wrigley Field in gate receipts and inject that extra fighting spark that the Cubs have seemed to lack in the last year or two.

Wrigley has lost in five out of seven big player deals during the past six years, deals that involved $1,000,000 in cash and a flock of men. He knows [illegible] Cardinals," so his reticence to cheer publicly over the Dean deal is quite understandable.

Jack Tebo Comes Raring Back to Town Itching to Land Leather on Wenstob

All Set

JACK TEBO
("Just let me at him!")

Fresh and eager after 10 days of roughing it in the bush country up around Fairview, Jack Tebo arrived in Edmonton Wednesdy with his manager, Jack Carrignan, to complete his training for the biggest fight of his career—next Tuesday's 10 round grudge event with Eddie Wenstob in the New Empire theatre here.

"Man, I feel like a million dollars," Tebo announced. "You know the bush country is home to me. It is the first time I have been back to it since I went down to New York last summer. I needed to get back there to get me some real honest fresh air. It's just like a tonic to take a 10-mile hike through the bush country and sleep where it's so quiet you can hear the grass grow."

On his arrival in Edmonton, Tebo went through some light limbering up at the Osborne Gym in the McLeod Block. He will work out again today and Friday night at the same gym he will give his first public sparring workout. His opponents will probably be George Shanks and Gordon Graysten.

HE'LL ENJOY IT

"You know this is one battle I'm going to enjoy all the way through," Tebo announced as he shadow-boxed around the room in the exhuberance of his spirits. "This Wenstob and his crowd have been making wise cracks about me for two years now. At first I figured they were just making excuses for not giving me a fight, but they kept on shooting off so much that they began to believe it themselves and [illegible] That kind of [illegible] is small town stuff. I notice they have cut a lot of it out lately—but just the same I'm going to pound me out a lot of nice juicy revenge."

Manager Jack Carrignan rubber his chin and grinned with evident satisfaction.

"WHY THE SECRECY?"

"Yeah, he's plenty burned up," he confirmed, "but what's the big idea of Wenstob doing all his training in secret—at least none of the fans can get in to see him workout. Don't tell me his brain trust is going to spring a mysterious new punch on us! Maybe I'm wrong, but the way I figure it is that they're afraid to give the folks a good look at Wenstob before the curtain goes up. They shouldn't really be worried about that—we promise not to run away. Wenstob is welcome to come down and see Tebo work any day he likes—but I don't think Eddie will like what he sees very much."

And so there you have it, folks. It would seem that they really don't like each other.

Shanks looks like the makings of the best heavyweight to be uncovered here in years. He has had seven pro fights and won them all by knockouts. Only one fighter has lasted two rounds against his punching. Clayton looks like the toughest opponent Shanks has yet encountered. He holds a decision over Dick Johnson, the tough scrapper from Ponoka, and fans here know that Dick was far from being a push-over. Clayton's decision over Johnson was only recently.

Pasch Wins Mile Easily At Newmarket

NEWMARKET, England, April 28—A firm favorite for the Derby was established Wednesday when H. E. (Manna) Morris' colt Pasch won the Two Thousand Guineas in convincing manner, with enough reserve left to augur well for the Epsom course, half a mile longer than Wednesday's distance.

WON BY TWO LENGTHS

Pasch, making only the second [illegible] running of the first of the season's five classics for three-year-olds by two lengths from James V. Rank's Scottish Union. One and a half lengths farther back in third place in the field of 18 was the Aga Khan's Mirza II.

A son of Blandford from the mare Pasca, Pasch ran a gallant race. Up with the leaders from the start, he was heading the field at the half-way mark and went into a definite lead going into the dip. Here first Mirza II. and then Scottish Union challenged, but Pasch had sufficient reserve to finish strongly. He covered the mile in 1:39.8

KING ATTENDS

A large crowd including the King, watched the race and loudly cheered the winning owner, whose great colt Manna won both the Two Thousand Guineas and the Derby in 1925—a feat Pasch promises to repeat. Mr. Morriss is a business man, with large interests in the Far East.

Gordon Richards, champion jockey, rode the winner, his first victory in the Two Thousand Guineas. He will also have the mount in the Derby, a race he has yet to win.

Co-favorite at 4 to 1 with Pasch at the post, Sir Humphrey De Trafford's Portmarnock, who before the race was favorite for the Derby, faded over the last quarter mile and finished fourth.

The second of the classics, the One Thousand Guineas, will be run Friday. It is reserved for fillies.

Frank Coulson Plans To Coach Olds Elks Team

OLDS, Alta., April 28.—Frank Coulson of Edmonton has been appointed [illegible] Hockey League, for the 1938-39 season.

Coulson coached the Battleford Beavers to the Allan Cup final in 1937.

Many lineup changes are contemplated for next season and it appeared Wednesday only three of the present team members: Tommy Cooper, Frank Warshawski and 'Putt' Holditch, would be in Elks' uniforms under Coulson.

Baseball Is On Comeback Renfrew Park

Reorganized with an entirely new executive and two new teams, baseball is striving for a comeback at Renfrew Park.

Early organization and early practices have given the league a grand start in its efforts to once again give the baseball minded fans a show down below the hill. Officials Nick MacPhee, Joe Monaghan and Secretary W. G. "Bill" Harris have already outlined preliminary plans and with the park negotiations smoothed away there is nothing to stop the comeback now.

GOOD CROP OUT

From now until the middle of May sessions will be serious affairs. Knights of Columbus started the ball rolling with a good two-hour session last night and a healthy crop of baseball players and potential ones stepped across the diamond and over the green outer pastures.

Jerry Searight, husky gridiron star of Calgary's Bronks and a former Texas ball star, is playing manager of the new Columbus entry. Jerry was on deck last night for the first drill and started the batch of players off at a merry clip. First there were a few limbering up exercises and a steady run around the outield.

As players loosened up a dozen or so balls were unboxed and the real McCoy was dished out with several groups playing catch and others taking their turns in the batters' box.

DUCEY NO SLUGGER

Now there was one in the batting box that was really dynamite. It was John "Lefty" Ducey. Now John because he just can't hit 'em, would be an answer to a pitcher's prayer. With Roger Jenkins of hockey fame, tossing them in as big as balloons. Ducey was the "sticker" or bat waver. It was a healthy looking bludgeon Ducey swung and the cuts at the ball too were healthy, but alas, that wrinkle of beef around John's middle made him miss something awful. After 20 great clouts at the ball, none of which damaged the pill for Ducey missed them all, the "great one" decided to stick to umpiring. There was a noticeable sigh of relief from the railbirds, for who likes to see a batter strike out all the time?

Searight started the batting off on a more serious basis. The husky grid star packed much punch behind the few he belted on the button and so did Art Weibe, also of Chicago hockey fame. Weibe lined out several smart belts in the practice and announced he may return to the park in a Columbus uniform.

GOOD TURNOUT

Other notables of the drill were Eric Dolighan, a star here several years ago and who will once again take his place at the short field. Reg Faull, Jack McMillan and Norman "Red" McIntyre, too, could be seen loosening up. Some recent newcomers such as Cam Scott and Vernon Scott, Frank Verickie and others went through warming up antics. Three members of the old junior circuit, Bill Melnyk, Red McGrath and Jimmy Brault were also in action.

Alex Gillies, acting president of the Columbus Athletic Association also announced the signing of several smart baseball men, most notable among them was Lefty Fiss.

On Thursday evening at the park the Arrows will start practicing on more serious lines. Hockey stars will dot the Arrow lineup with Neil and Mac Colville, Phats and Morey Rimstad and possible other stars of the ice lands as likely starters.

Friday evening Ralph Morgan's Cardinals will hit the deck for a stiff workout, while on Saturday the North Edmonton Belmonts will be hard at it also starting at 6.00 p.m.

On Sunday all four teams will be in action. The K.C.'s will start at 10.00 a.m., the Arrows at 11:30, the Cardinals at 1:00 o'clock and the Belmonts at 2:30.

Championship Stays Here For 16th Year — Noel MacDonald Sets New Peak For Field Scoring Accuracy— Northup Injured

By JACK KELLY

FOR the 16th consecutive year the Dominion women's basketball championship stays in Edmonton in possession of the Grads, which incidentally is every year that this title has been in existence. Last night the Grads completed their sweep to the championship with a 58-13 victory over Toronto British Consols—a clean three straight win. The Grads took the first game 72-28, and the second one 66-29.

Although this makes 16 years that this championship has remained here, it was only the Grads' 13th defence of it. No Dominion championships were played in 1929, 1936 and 1937. In all the Grads have played 29 games for the Canadian senior title and won 27 of them.

There was never any doubt of the outcome of last night's game after the first quarter, but just the same the Grads were both brilliant and mediocre. In the first half they soared to a new peak in field accuracy that was positively sensational. They scored 16 baskets out of 27 shots for an average of 59 per cent. Then in the last half they suddenly lost their shooting touch. Out of 34 field shots they scored only 10 for an average of 29 per cent. Their total for the game, however, works out to the normal percentage of 42.6.

One Grad injury marked the game. With only one minute of play left in the first quarter, little Helen Northup was pushed while in mid-air under the Consol basket. She fell heavily on her right knee and wrenched it so badly that Coach Percy Page had to carry her from the floor. She was unable to play again during the game.

Back in the game after having been on the sidelines throughout most of the second tilt of the series, Captain Noel MacDonald turned in the most brilliant scoring performance of her career. She scored 10 field baskets out of 14 shots for an average of 71 per cent. Noel led all scorers with 22 points. The next best was deadly little Etta Dann with seven baskets out of 12 shots for an average of 58 per cent.

SOPHIE STARTS IT

Sophie Brown started the Grads on their final sprint to the title. She opened the scoring with a field basket, followed it up with another, and then Noel MacDonald bagged two more to make the score 8-0. At this stage Dot Smerdon got Toronto's first counter. Throughout the rest of the game the Grads were never tied.

The first quarter ended with the world champions in front 17-2, at half-time they were leading 36-6, and at the end of the third quarter they had a 42-11 margin.

BEST DEFENSIVELY

Defensively the Grads were at their best in the first and fourth quarters in each of which they held Toronto to two points. On the other hand the Grad scoring reached a new low in the third quarter when they were able to score only two field baskets out of 14 attempts. Toronto scored only six field baskets out of 46 tries in the entire game and one free throw out of five.

While the factor of suspense was missing from the game, there was enough brilliance and rapid-fire action to make up for it. From time to time the Grads' passing attack was sensational with every member of the team sharing in it. Defensively they may have fallen a bit below par once in a while, but this apparent lapse may have been the result of the Toronto girls adopting a much faster attack than they used in the first two games.

EXCEPTIONALLY CLEAN

There appeared to be quite a bit of holding by the Toronto girls, but the game was clean otherwise. Only four goals were chalked up against the Grads while six were charged against the Consols . . an exceptionally low total for championship play. LaChapelle, of Toronto, was the only girl on either team to have two personal fouls scored against her.

Provincial Treasurer Solon E. Low, president of the Alberta Basketball association, presented the Underwood Trophy, emblematic of the Canadian championship, to Captain Noel MacDonald immediately after the game.

Following is the detailed box score:

Dean, Rowe Baseball Experiences Have Taught Feller Valuable Lesson

Cleveland Ace Will Not Be Throwing His Hard One On Every Pitch

NEW YORK, April 28. — Four years ago three great young pitchers starred in a world series between the Tigers and Cardinals. It was their splendid pitching over a full season that won pennants for their teams.

Don't look now—but isn't that Paul Dean pitching in the Texas league? And what of the arms of Schoolboy Rowe and Dizzy Dean, fireball flingers of yesteryear? Rowe still doesn't know whether he'll be able to get anybody out in a major league ball game. And Dean, after a dull and discouraging year, is nursing carefully the arm he used to tax with generous abandon. He is still in the doubtful class despite a good start for the Cubs.

BOB FELLER

FELLER TAKES HIS CUE

The experiences of the two Deans and Rowe have been very enlightening and beneficial to another young speed salesman—Bob Feller, who at 19 has learned the valuable lesson that it is possible to throw your arm over the grandstand and far away, no matter how strong the old souper may feel.

The example of other young fast ball pitchers, plus the fact that he sidetracked his good right elbow last summer, has made Feller as careful as a Scottish banker with his high hard one. The kid who tried to strike out everybody in the trade last summer has learned, with some help from his new boss, Oscar Vitt, that he doesn't have to throw a ball through a brick wall every time he takes hold of it, and that a pop fly is just as effective as a third strike in getting a man out of that batter's box.

The youngster from Iowa still can turn it on when he has to, but he is using vastly better judgment now that he doesn't have to prove that all those stories about his sizzler are true and not just ballyhoo. He works hard on the first batter to face him each inning. Then, with one out, he lets an infielder or outfielder have a chance to earn some money, too. In the tight spots he can turn it on.

Return of Rowe would make a pennant possible for Detroit this year. If the two Deans were in there chucking them as of 1935, all the Cardinals would have to do would be to have world series tickets printed. But that hitch in his shoulder still bothers Rowe. Paul Dean has gone back to the bushes and Dizzy is a Cub instead of a Card.

If you were Bob Feller, you'd slow up, too.

"I was sitting West and the hand is the worst freak I ever had. South opened with a bid of four hearts, a bad bid, of course. It should have been three hearts. I then bid four spades. This was either bold or rash and I don't know which you would say. I figured this way. If my partner had nothing, the opponents had a slam; if my partner had something, the sacrifice would be worth while and obviously it was the last opportunity for a bid. North doubled. I made five, which finally proved to be a tie for top.

"I would appreciate your comments on my bid. Of course, I would not have made it had we been vulnerable.

"Yours truly, B. G.—New York."

I note that my correspondent thinks that South's proper bid was three hearts. As a matter of fact this, of course, would have been far better than the four heart shutout actually used, but still not the best bidding by any means. South's holding was distinctly slammish and, although he could not afford to open with a two bid when holding only four honor tricks, the bid that offered the greatest chance of reaching the proper spot was a mere one heart. West had no need to feel that he was rash in overcalling the four heart bid with four spades. His terrific freak made such an overcall highly logical. It was North's double even more than South's opening bid, that led to such a poor match-point score for North-South. Even with equal vulnerability, or nonvulnerability, North should not have considered doubling merely because he held two spade tricks. South had announced (although untruthfully) that his hand was virtually defenseless. And North, with three hearts, should have been doubtful about South's delivering even one trick to the defense of a spade contract.

Admittedly, North was in a tough spot after the two previous bids. A pass would convey a picture of less strength than North actually held, and a heart raise might be severely penalized. All in all, however, since North did have to choose from among many evils, the raise to five hearts would have been the least dangerous of any call. After such a raise it would be East's turn to be "on the spot," and he might very well decide to double. Of course, if he did double, West should not permit it to stand but should go to five spades. This, I am afraid, North would have to double and South probably would have to leave in, since his own bad opening bid had deprived him of the opportunity to locate an ace in the North hand and since, therefore, he could not know that a small slam would be a laydown.

Big Chief Vitt Takes Cleveland Tribe Off Of Spot

CHICAGO, April 28—Those war-whooping Cleveland Indians—Big Chief Oscar Vitt has the council floor — are off the reservation they've been peacefully camping on for so many moons.

They're leading the American baseball league. They've been showing classy pitching and punch at the plate. But that's only the half of it, according to Manager Vitt, who believes the Indians now have that certain "oompah," lack of which in the past has made the club look great each spring "on paper" and not so great on the field.

"I've insisted on just a few things since taking my job," Vitt said, "and one of them was hustle from my players. Now the club is all hopped up with team spirit and fight, and that's been largely responsible, I think, for our showing.

"Another thing: Cleveland teams in the past, I think, have been wild-swinging teams. I play the percentages up there at the plate. Get men on base is my idea, whether it's by hitting or passes. I think we're playing a different kind of ball than that played by other Cleveland teams and we'll keep playing it from now on."

Lawrin Clips Off Fast Test Mile Preping for Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28.—H. M. Woolf's bay colt, Lawrin, clipped off a mile Wednesday in a workout for the Kentucky Derby that amazed veteran turfmen. He was clocked 1:38 flat, said by the old timers around Churchill Downs to be the fastest time ever made in a Derby prep here.

The colt's time at the various posts was clocked at :23 for the quarter, :34 3-5 for the three-eighs, :46 for a half, :58 4-5, (better than the track record) for the five-eighths, and 1:11 4-5 for the three-quarters. He then galloped out a mile and an eighth in 1:52 4-5.

Welders Practice

The Saskatoon Welders lacrosse squad will practice tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the Scona Centre grounds. All players are asked to note the change in place.

LONDON, April 28.—Broughton Rangers blanked Newcastle 22-0 and Huddersfield defeated St. Helens Recs 22-11 in English Rugby League matches played Wednesday.

INJURED MAN GIVES LIFE TO SAVE HIS SON

RAPPAHANNOCK, Va., April 28.—With a broken leg in a plaster cast, 16-year-old Donald Kelly's dad swam out in the Rappahannock river Wednesday and held up his exhausted boy until help came. The father, P. D. Kelly, drowned.

The 41-year-old Richmond electrician stood below the surface on the bottom of the stream so the unconscious boy, his only son, could breath until a rowboat reached him. The boy had swum out to retrieve a broken fishing line and became too tired to swim back. His father tore off shirt and trousers and managed to swim out despite the cast.

ABOLITION OF SCHOOL BOARDS BEING PRESSED

Ald. F. C. Casselman Urges Early Consideration Of Plan

Ald. F. C. Casselman reported Thursday he would press for early consideration of his plan to abolish the Edmonton Public and Separate School boards as at present constituted, their duties being handed over to city council.

If this proposal is accepted, aldermen would then become school trustees. In order that councillors might be able to handle school administration efficiently, Ald. Casselman is also recommending that the number on council be increased from the present 11 to 15 members A committee of aldermen could then be named to deal with school affairs.

This is part of Ald. Casselman's plan to revise the whole civic administration. He explained that as city council now has charge of other civic business, it should also direct the operation of schools.

His proposal has been before the council's by-laws committee for several weeks, but to date no definite action has been taken on it. Ald. Casselman, former Public School trustee, has been instructed to confer with A. E. Ottewell and J. O. Pilon, chairmen of the Public and Separate School boards, respectively, in connection with his plan.

TRAM SURVEY REPORT WILL BE DISCUSSED

Special meeting of city council will be called next Tuesday to hear a report prepared by Norman D. Wilson, Toronto consulting engineer, on the proposed $700,000 rehabilitation program for the street railway system.

This meeting was originally scheduled for Thursday, April 28, but due to the fact that Mr. Wilson has decided to lengthen his stay in the city, commissioners have decided to postpone the meeting and call it for next Tuesday.

As council is meeting Thursday for the discussion of other business, however, it is likely that Mr. Wilson will be asked to present a brief outline of the tram survey he is now completing. The full report will then be dealt with at the meeting next week.

The proposed rehabilitation program would cover a period of 10 years.

Edmonton Bright Spot In West C.P. Officials Declare

Declaring that both from a weather and business standpoint Edmonton was the bright spot in the west today, William Horder, general passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Winnipeg, and J. W. Dawson, district passenger agent at Calgary, were city visitors Thursday.

Both railroad men declared conditions generally in Alberta pointed to a good year from every viewpoint, Plentiful moisture in every part of the province was giving assurance of a good crop provided only normal conditions prevailed from now until harvest, and developments in the Turner Valley oil fields also indicated that the oil industry would result in material benefits to Alberta this year.

Conductor Gets Political Bump

MOOSE JAW, April 28.—A Canadian Pacific Railway conductor, W. G. Baker, staged a political comeback and shouldered out a fellow conductor and sitting member of the legislature, J. H. Laird, when he won the "Labor" nomination of the Liberal party for the two-member Moose Jaw riding here today. W. G. Ross, K.C., sitting member, was the other nominee.

Rich Valley Man Prevented From Operating Store

An injunction was granted in supreme court Thursday by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie restraining Walter Perritt, Rich Valley storekeeper and trucker, from operating a general store in that town in opposition to Mrs. Florence M. Orser. Costs of the action and damages totalling $200 were also assessed against Mr. Perritt.

The cause of action was the breaking of an agreement not to operate a store entered into by Perritt when Mrs. Orser purchased store property from the defendant in 1934.

The defence set up was that the sale agreement stipulated a time limit of three years before Perritt could operate a store in the village.

Col. F. C. Jamieson, K.C., acted for the plaintiff.

VARSITY BOOK CIRCULATED IN CITY THURSDAY

350-Page Volume Said To Be Finest Published By Students

Culminating a year's effort, first copies of the Evergreen and Gold, year book of the University of Alberta were released Thursday morning by Bert Swann, director of the publication.

The book, possibly the finest yet produced by the students of the university, has gained the position of one of the highest ranking university publications on the continent. It is a 350-page volume bound in a padded leather cover, containing art work throughout, and giving a complete pictorial and literary resume of student affairs on the campus for the current year. It cost over $6,000.

INDIAN MOTIF

This year's book is designed on an Indian motif and has required several weeks' research into Indian lore, and months of effort to attain authentic art production. It is divided into 10 sections, with each section prefaced with a fine copper plate etching printed on a special wood fibre paper. The art work, prepared by Jack Housez of Edmonton, was completed after consulting Norman Luxton, of Banff, considered one of the leading Canadian authorities on Indian customs.

Pages throughout the book are printed in two colors, green being predominant, and contain art work of various Indian utensils and implements of war.

In contrast to the Indian art, are pictures of campus scenes in summer and winter. A new high in photographs accomplished was attained when the producers managed to get a copper plaque effect of the leading university buildings.

NEW FEATURES

One of the new features of the book includes a special drawing of Petty, famous "Esquire" illustrator, dedicated to the "Peaches" at Alberta. Along with that there is included special artistic photographic portraits of six co-eds, also done in "Esquire" style.

Students who have subscribed to the book will have copies mailed to them in the near future, Edmonton students being able to obtain their books at the University Book Store in the Arts Building.

COL. F. E. SNELL OF AMBULANCE BRIGADE HERE

Experienced Group, Capable Of Rendering First Aid, Built Up

Work of the St. John's Ambulance brigade and association has succeeded in building up an experienced group in the Dominion capable of rendering first aid in an emergency, Col. F. E. Snell, director of the ambulance and commandery division, said Thursday.

Here for an inspection visit of the local corps, Col. Snell was met at the Macdonald hotel by W. C. Bruce, local president, and Dr. H. K. Groff, medical officer with the workmen's compensation board and provincial commissioner of the association.

About 250 people were given training in first aid in Edmonton here last year and the national association since its inception has issued 400,000 certificates, Colonel Snell reported.

FILLING NEED

Establishment of a bureau by the association to provide home comforts for patients at a nominal fee was filling a need and was proving popular, Dr. Groff said.

In addition, the association was providing books for use of soldiers in University hospital, it was pointed out.

Formerly head of the medical division of the Canadian militia, Dr. Snell will be in the city inspecting the local unit until Tuesday.

TETHERING OF ANIMALS MAY BE RESTRICTED

Persons pasturing cows or horses will not be permitted to tether the animals nearer than 200 feet to a dwelling place if a recommendation of the city health board is approved by city council.

By authority of the board, Dr. G. M. Little, medical health officer, is recommending to council that the bylaw governing the tethering of animals be amended to prevent them roaming too close to residences. The bylaw at present fixes 50 feet as the distance a cow or horse must be tethered from a dwelling; the board is asking that this distance be increased to 200 feet.

This action results from complaints made to the board recently by J. W. Heron, 11945 105 street, and Douglas Johnshtone, 12019 105 street, who stated that cows pastured in their district caused a nuisance by being allowed to wander too close to dwellings.

The board is also recommending a provision that if the bylaw is not observed, animals may be impounded.

Hepburn Decides Against Any Investigation Of Dionne Affairs

JUDICIAL QUIZ UNWARRANTED HEPBURN SAYS

No Change In Guardianship Unless Dr. Dafoe Says So

TORONTO, April 28.—No judicial investigation into the affairs of the Dionne quintuplets is justified and none will be held, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced today.

He said further any change in the guardianship of the famed children will be made only at the request of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe and Judge J. A. Valin, two of the present guardians.

Inquiry and demanded by Oliva Dionne, father of the quints, into the handling of their finances, said the approximate $600,000 through movie and other contracts, and into the handling of their affairs generally. Mr. Dionne himself is one of the guardians and the fourth is Percy D. Wilson, official guardian of minors in Ontario.

Premier Hepburn said a report prepared by Wilson on a preliminary inquiry he made at Callander and North Bay a month ago had indicated no necessity for a judicial probe. Nor was any change in the guardianship indicated unless either Dr. Dafoe or Judge Valin ask to be relieved of their duties.

It was reported earlier Judge Valin, ill recently, would retire to be replaced by Judge J. A. S. Louffe of Nipissing district.

BI-LINGUALISM

Attorney General Gordon Conant announced today the education of the quints will be placed under the bi-lingual (English-French) section of the department of education.

No consideration will be given to Dionne's request for reinstatement of Teacher Clare Tremblay and Nurse Jacqueline Noel.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe's position as "supreme authority in all matters affecting the health of the quintuplets" is to be maintained. An increase in the allowance paid the Dionne family from the quints' fund from $100 to $300 a month is confirmed.

EXTRAVAGANCE NOTED

The attorney general's announcement was based on the findings of Guardian Wilson, who made a preliminary inquiry into Dionne's complaints at North Bay and Callander a month ago.

Consideration should be given by the guardians "to the growing administrative costs," the report states in reference to Dionne's charges of "extravagance".

Mr. Wilson held out hope for ultimate reunion of the Dionne family with their famous daughters and suggests "that the whole situation be surveyed from all points of view, including medical, educational and religious, with a view to reuniting the family."

Highway Crime Bill Is Coming

OTTAWA, April 28—A government bill amending the criminal code sections relating to highway accidents will be introduced in the House of Commons within two weeks, it was announced Wednesday by Hon. E. Lapointe, minister of justice.

He Surprised F.D.R.

Henry Ford is pictured during his interview, on his Wayside Inn property, at Sudbury, Mass., as he announced that he would be a most unusual guest on his visit to President Roosevelt at the White House. Said the auto magnate, "I'm going to let him have a look at someone who doesn't want anything, and who also does not want to give him any advice." The visit would be merely a social one and any "conference" would be a renewal of an old acquaintanceship, Mr. Ford explained.

Ford Admits He Had Nice Roosevelt Visit

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Henry Ford left the White House following a long luncheon conference with President Roosevelt Wednesday on business conditions, remarking only that he had had a pleasant visit.

The 74-year-old multi-millionaire automobile maker refused to answer any questions as he emerged on the front portico in the midst of nearly 100 newspapermen.

"Did you have a pleasant visit?" he was asked as he hurried into his big black limousine to go to the railroad station.

"Sure," was all that he would say.

SHEER FOLLY EXPECT BREAK SAYS STEVENS

OTTAWA, April 28—During debate Wednesday in the House of Commons on the 1938-39 bill for alleviation of unemployment and agricultural distress, Hon. H. H. Stevens (Recon. Kootenay East) said it was "sheer folly" to think by some stroke of fate "we will one of these days wake up to find ourselves back in the halcyon days of 1928."

He said it would appear the government was basing its appeal on the evasion of its responsibility rather than on an acceptance of it.

"I hope before the end of the session we will find the government giving some leadership and accepting its responsibility."

Man Arrested On Charges Of Theft

Charged with the theft of an auto, tools, $85 in cash and $94 in cheques, William C. Howat was arrested in North Edmonton by Constable J. E. Peterson Wednesday evening. He will appear in police court Thursday morning.

Sixteen Big Businessmen Pledge To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Commerce Secretary Roper called today upon 16 business leaders who yesterday pledged co-operation with President Roosevelt to present a concrete program for industrial recovery in the United States.

Praising the attitude of the 16 men, Roper said: "Now the 16 should be contacted and should work out a concrete program."

He said he would try to arrange a conference of the business leaders through his business advisory council, to which some of the 16 belong.

The secretary expressed the belief that "not only these 16 but a large percentage of all businessmen want to co-operate with the government to promote recovery."

M'DONALD HOTEL REPORTS PROFIT

OTTAWA, April 28.—Total revenues from Canadian National hotels last year were $26,335,000 and net revenues $200,087, S. J. Hungerford, C.N.R. president, told the Commons Railway Committee Wednesday.

A breakdown of finances of 11 hotels operated by the system, omitting the Grand Beach establishment on Lake Winnipeg, showed six of them made profit and five deficits. Among the establishments showing net revenues were the Macdonald hotel, Edmonton, $31,601, and Jasper Park, Alta., $26,214.

HITLER TO GET HIS LETTUCE AND SPINACH

BERLIN, April 28.—As Chancellor Hitler of Germany is a vegetarian, a complete set of "model menus" has been sent to Rome for the guidance of chefs responsible for his diet during his visit early next month.

Girl Killed As Car Turns Over

ISABELLA, Man., April 28 — Eileen Clarke, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clarke of this town 175 miles west of Winnipeg, was killed instantly Wednesday when an automobile in which she was riding overturned. Five other occupants of the car escaped serious injury.

Probe Adjourned

TORONTO, April 28.—A government-ordered inquiry into Homewood sanitarium, with all evidence-taking completed, was adjourned Wednesday until May 11 when Commissioner F. H. Barlow will receive oral argument from at least three lawyers. Evidence was heard from nearly 50 witnesses during 13 days at Toronto and Guelph.

Accord Endorsed

DUBLIN, April 28.—The Dail Eireann, lower house of the Eire parliament, Wednesday gave first reading to six bills which will implement the Anglo-Eire agreements signed Monday. William T. Cosgrave, opposition leader, announced his Fine Gael party supported the accord and declared it was a pity such a friendship pact had not been made six years ago.

STEPS TAKEN FOR CURBING OF UNDULANT

tests of cows for infectious abortion. Twelve producers refused permission; of the remaining herds, 20 were found to be free of the disease, 15 contained infected animals, two have not yet been tested and reports on the tests for two others are not yet available.

The fifteen producers whose herds are infected will be given until June 1 to remove diseased animals from their herds. If this action is not taken, licenses will be suspended—unless the milk is pasteurized or sold to a pasteurization plant.

Dr. Little explained that bovine infectious abortion is highly communicable, and the herd may contract it from one infected animal. Animals found infected should be separated from the rest of the herd, and their milk should not be consumed in the raw or natural state. If it is pasteurized, however, the germs are killed.

BLOOD TEST

Testing for the disease is done by the provincial government's laboratory, blood samples from cows being obtained by health department inspectors and veterinarians and turned over to the laboratory for analysis.

The health board was informed Wednesday that while milk from untested herds was still being distributed in Edmonton, no new cases of undulant fever have been reported since January and it is confidently believed no new outbreak of the disease will occur here.

DRASTIC ACTION

The health department, however, is taking drastic action to prevent distribution of milk from infected cows.

Dr. Little stated that while there were actually no patients in hospital at the present time suffering from undulant fever, it was known that symptoms of the disease recurred over a lengthy period. In many instances it was necessary for the patient to be confined to bed for a few days during this period—a fact which was serious from the viewpoint of the working person, he said.

Referring to authority invested in the health board to enforce inspections of dairy cattle and suspend licenses when conditions were unsatisfactory, Dr. Little cited Section 433 of provincial government regulations governing dairy farms and the milk trade. It reads: "The local board, or the provincial board, may suspend or revoke any certificate of registration at any time, if such be in its opinion in the interests of public health."

As the city health board operates under the Alberta Health Act, it has the power conferred by the act.

DAIRY SPOKESMAN

Appearing as solicitor for the Edmonton and District Natural Milk Producers' Association, Gordon Winkler protested any action by the board to suspend licenses because of the producers' refusal to permit inspections of herds.

He pointed out that dairymen would lose money through the removal of infected cattle; also, there was no assurance that cows purchased to replace them would not also be infected.

Mr. Winkler further maintained that the Alberta government should give protection to producers and consumers throughout the province by making the dairy-herd tests compulsory in the whole of the province.

Dr. R. M. Shaw, board chairman, explained to the delegate that obviously the city board had no power to enforce action outside its own jurisdiction. The board, he said, was primarily interested in safeguarding the health of Edmonton people.

CAUGHT BY CONTACT

Mr. Winkler then declared his clients wished him to emphasize the fact that undulant fever is more often contracted through a person coming into actual contact with the animal than through consumption of the cow's milk. He also stated it had been reported that other animals, including pigs and cats, suffered the same disease and could communicate it to persons who touched them.

Differing with the delegate, Dr. Little declared following the meeting that in the cases reported during the past year there had been no evidence of persons contracting undulant fever through direct contact with infected animals. "The logical conclusion is that they caught it by drinking raw milk from infected cows," he said.

Mr. Winkler stressed the fact that in many cases dairymen could not bear the cost of installing their own pasteurization plants, also that many people demanded natural milk in preference to the pasteurized product.

ARE RELUCTANT

Undoubtedly many dairymen in Alberta were cognizant of the problem, but were reluctant to deal with the problem either through the provincial or federal governments because of the losses they might suffer as a result, Chairman Dr. Shaw said. He also informed the board it was necessary for dairy herds to be tested periodically to ensure freedom from disease.

Dr. Little gave it as his opinion that the odd infected cow in a herd would probably cause no trouble, as health department records proved that no person had contracted undulant fever through drinking milk obtained from a herd with infection of less than approximately 20 per cent.

1,000 ATTEND WAITERS' BALL ON WEDNESDAY

Hotel and Restaurant Employees Stage Annual Banquet and Dance

Shades of the famed European capitals with their carefree throngs, happily singing as they quaffed their beer, were brought to this city on Wednesday night at the Tivoli when the Edmonton Hotel and Restaurant Employees Association Local No. 579 held its annual banquet and dance.

After attending this function it is easy to agree with one attendant who declared that Paris could have its Boulevard des Italiens, Berlin its Unter der Linden, Vienna its Prater and London its Leicester Lounge, but he would take this happy gathering at the Tivoli.

ENJOYED THEMSELVES

With music, song and dance, coupled with the inviting atmosphere created by the sight of indefatigable waiters scurrying hither and thither hardly able to cope with the demand for the popular beverage, the good citizens enjoyed themselves to the full.

Novel in its idea and conception, this jamboree has few counterparts entertainment here.

Seated at tables around the vast Tivoli auditorium, the merrymakers had food and beverage brought them, the whole presenting a strong similarity to many continental establishments.

From 10:30 p.m. until midnight the "banquet" phase of the evening was held, with food and drink served.

ON WITH DANCE

At midnight the kitchens were closed, tables cleared and the Tivoli became a ball-room once more, with many couples swaying to the latest fox-trots and rhumbas.

And when it came to "swinging it", doing the "shag", the rhumba and other currently or recently popular dances, this gathering won the entire approbation of all onlookers.

Scheduled to go until 1 a.m. the dancers were disinclined to stop then.

Demands for encores were heard time and again and no effort was spared by those in charge to make the whole enjoyable.

Presiding over the entire affair was a special committee struck for the occasion.

J. CORCORAN CONVENER

James Corcoran, secretary and manager of the sponsoring organization, was convener of the committee and he was assisted by Mr. Babish, president of the association; Norman MacDonald, secretary; William Truskf, Arthur Garner, Roy Catarch and Fred Allen.

Brewery companies and tobacco firms donated beer and smokes for the occasion.

He had a glittering array of talent on hand, including Jack Jones, who led community singing; Jack White, Jack MacGee, "Charlie McCarthy," a ventriloquist; North Hanley, monologuist; Misses Johnston and Robinson, danseuses; Jack McCarthy, vocalist and Cal Pickles, violinist. Sam Hobson was the accompanist.

Probe Of Quintuplet Affairs Is Demanded

A request for an inquiry into the guardians' management of the Dionne quintuplets has been made to Ontario's attorney-general's department by Henri St. Jacques, Ottawa barrister, acting for Oliva Dionne, father of the quints. Mr. St. Jacques declared that there was some doubt in the mind of Mr. Dionne whether the children's money was being spent judiciously. The present guardians of the quints are Percy D. Wilson, left, official guardian of minor children for Ontario; Judge J. A. Valin, of North Bay, top centre; Oliva Dionne, lower centre, and Dr. Dafoe, the quints' physician, right.

DR. D. G. REVELL RETIRES HERE AT AGE OF 70

Veteran lecturer of anatomy at the University of Alberta, Dr. Daniel G. Revell retired Wednesday at the age of 70.

Born in Ingersoll, Ont., in 1869, Professor Revell attended Woodstock schools, Guelph collegiate, Toronto and Chicago universities. He taught school in between University sessions, and is particularly proud of the fact that he once taught "Parisians" French at Paris, Ont.

After spending seven years in research and lecturing at Chicago University Professor Revell came to Alberta in 1907 as provincial pathologist and bacteriologist.

When Alberta's medical school was instituted this department of government was transferred to the University and Professor Revell was placed at its head. He was the first professor of medical science at the institution.

Professor Revell's work as pathologist included medico-legal investigations and for many years he co-operated with police in Saskatchewan and Alberta in solving puzzling mysteries.

FOUR POLICE FAIL NOTICE HOLD-UP ACT

TORONTO, April 28.—A daring gunman escaped with $8 early last night after holding up a Jenny Lind candy shop at Adelaide and Bay streets in Toronto's business district. Four policemen, stationed almost at the door of the shop, failed to notice the holdup.

Mother Makes Frantic Plea Of Help For Son

TORONTO, April 28.—Mrs. Florence Sallows of Toronto Wednesday issued a plea that "somebody, somewhere," might be able to aid her seven-year-old son, Dellon, in his fight against a rare disease, progressive atrophic muscular dystrophe.
